House Passes State Right Bill

Dixie Demo-GOP Coalition Upsets Administration

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republicans jumped the Eisenhower administration line in droves Wednesday to help Southern Democrats pass a states rights bill, 225-192.

Only 30 Republicans voted against the bill, which President Eisenhower's top Justice Department officials repeatedly said would create a welter of uncertainty and litigation over federal and state laws in the same fields. A total of 162 Democrats also voted "no."

114 Republicans Vote "Yes"

Siding with the 111 Democrats who voted for the bill—nearly all from the South—were 114 Republicans. Among them was GOP House Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, who spoke on the southerners' side during debate on a key amendment.

The senior Republican member of the Judiciary Committee, Rep. William M. McCulloch of Ohio, was one of the floor generals of the forces pushing for approval.

The bill now goes to the Senate where a similar measure died last year. It provides that a federal law does not take over from a state law in the same field unless Congress says so, specifically, or unless the two statutes cannot be reconciled.

Nelson Case Recalled

It was variously described as a weapon pointed at civil rights and labor legislation, a reaffirmation of the Constitution, a slap at the U.S. Supreme Court and a leap into the dark, with unpredictable effects on scores of federal and state enactments.

The issue of communism and subversion contributed to the motion which frequently charged the three-day debate.

One of the key Supreme Court decisions involved reversed the conviction of Steve Nelson under a Pennsylvania sedition law. The court held the federal law had taken over the field.

The Southern Democratic - Republican coalition beat down all efforts to dilute the bill.

Frondizi Picks Economic Czar For Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Embattled President Arturo Frondizi molded a free enterprise Cabinet Wednesday around a new economics czar in a desperate bid to appease military foes thirsting for his ouster.

He coaxed Alvaro Alsogaray, 46, an engineer and army man turned politician, into taking command of Argentina's faltering economic program.

Before accepting, he demanded and won control of the Labor Ministry, which often has checkmated Economics Ministry plans.

He will be labor minister temporarily and will have the right to select the labor minister later on as well as to pick six key men for secretariats in his own ministry.

One of the nation's leading exponents of free enterprise thus won an iron hand over economic and social policies.

Frondizi made the strategic political move in the face of mushrooming threats from disgruntled military men who have been accusing his government of being too easy on Communists and ex-dictator Juan D. Peron's followers who are alleged to be imbedded in the regime.

Rear Adm. Isaac Rojas, a powerful chief in the military movement that overthrew Peron in 1955, brought the complaints of army, navy and air force into the open Tuesday night with a demand that Frondizi resign.

Interior Minister Alfredo Vitolo, most outspoken of Frondizi's defenders, retorted that the President would not quit and that Rojas was proclaiming a call for subversion.

Dominican Troops Mop Up Invaders

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The government said Wednesday that troops and armed peasants are hunting down remnants of a sea-borne invasion force that landed June 20.

Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo was expected to return here soon from the fighting area in the north coast mountains.

He is expected to report to congress when he arrives on what the Dominicans charge was a Cuban-supported attack from the sea.

Judge Refuses Starkweather Execution Stay

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — The Nebraska Supreme Court, called into an emergency session Wednesday night refused to grant a stay of execution to mass killer Charles Starkweather.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Lancaster County Dist. Judge Harry Spencer refused Wednesday to stay the scheduled midnight (2 a. m. Eastern Standard Time) execution of mass killer Charles Starkweather.

The judge's decision came some three hours after Starkweather's parents had filed with the court a motion for a stay of execution and a new trial of their son's murder case.

Judge Spencer said the motion "was not supported in any way by one iota of evidence."

The judge also held that he lacks authority "at this stage" to stay the execution.

Guy Starkweather, the killer's father who attended the two-minute court session at which Judge Spencer announced his decision, said he would seek advice on a possible next step — presumably an appeal to the State Supreme Court.

He had at that time a bare eight hours to block the electric chair execution of the 20-year-old red-haired youth convicted in one of 11 killings attributed to him.

Immediately after Judge Spencer turned down the motion for a new trial, Starkweather's father, in another desperation effort, asked the District Court for a writ of error coram nobis, alleging his son was illegally detained.

Judge Spencer promptly denied this writ, a common law remedy used to bring into the record matter which could not be brought in by any other method.

It had been anticipated that the elder Starkweather's next step would be an appeal to the State Supreme Court, but no such move had been made up to the time the offices closed at 5 p.m.

A few hours before Judge Spencer ruled, Guy Starkweather made public a statement from his son commenting on the speed with which a new execution date was fixed after the U.S. Supreme Court turned down his appeal for a review of the case.

Bodies Of 12 Victims Found In Hotel Ruins

STALHEIM, Norway (AP)—The fire-wrecked ruins of the Stalheim Tourist Hotel Wednesday night yielded what appeared to be the bodies of two more victims. If confirmed, the latest finds raise the body count to 12.

Another 12 are listed as missing. Of the 24 total, 22 are believed to have been Americans.

None of those known dead or listed as missing had been identified definitely.

There were 147 guests in the old wooden hotel when flames raced through it early Tuesday—130 of them Americans.

Press attache Reuben Monson emphasized that the list contained only the names of Americans the embassy knows are alive and does not mean there are no more survivors.

Seven bodies were found Tuesday and another three earlier Wednesday.

Authorities said careless smoking was suspected as a cause of the blaze. A Norwegian guide was questioned by police and then released.

Gloria Vanderbilt Wins Her Child Custody Battle

NEW YORK (AP)—Gloria Vanderbilt reversed the pattern of her own childhood Wednesday when she won vindication as a fit mother of her two sons.

Her custody fight with her former husband, conductor Leopold Stokowski, ended in a standoff decision by State Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Nathan Jr. Gloria was granted complete custody of the boys, but Stokowski was guaranteed generous visitation rights.

Nathan criticized both father and mother for taking up his time with a matter they should have settled between themselves.

Nevertheless, the compromise enabled both sides to claim a victory in the custody case. To a degree, it duplicated the family discord that swirled around Gloria 25 years ago when she became known as the "Poor Little Rich Girl."

Her own mother was attacked as unfit when Gloria was a child of 10. Gloria became a ward of the court, spending weekdays with an aunt and weekends with her mother.

In the current case involving Gloria's sons, Stan, 8, and Chris, 7, Justice Nathan ruled after a secret hearing from which press and public were barred: "The court does not find that either parent is unfit."

Ike Prods For Gas Tax Hike

President Says Road Program In Critical Jam

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower complained Wednesday that Congress has put the national road-building program in a critical, $4,200,000,000 jam by not boosting the gasoline tax.

And Congress shows no signs of ordering the 1½-cent a gallon increase he has asked, to pump more money into the interstate highway fund.

Without the increase, Eisenhower pictured the program as limping to an almost complete halt over the next two years. In an attempt to build a fire under Congress, he said this is the picture disclosed by a Commerce Department poll of state highway commissioners:

Ten states will have to stop letting new contracts by the end of the summer. Fifteen more and the District of Columbia must stop by the end of the year. Eleven will suspend by July 1960. The remaining 12 will be unaffected until after mid-1960.

On Verge Of Stalemate

"This is a critical situation in our national road-building program, and one which should give great concern to every motorist," the President said in a statement. "We are on the verge of a stalemate in the orderly development of our vital interstate road network."

He based his analysis on a report from Bertram D. Tallamy, federal highway administrator. Attached to it were reproductions of telegrams from highway commissioners on prospects in their individual states.

Tallamy offered a batch of figures to show that unless Congress knocks down the financial roadblocks, the states will get not a penny of the 2½ billion dollars of federal help authorized for the year starting July 1, 1960. This would mean they would be lacking amounts ranging from 8¾ million dollars for Delaware to 251½ millions for California.

Old Feuding Point

For the year beginning July 1, 1961, the states would get no more than 500 million out of $2,200,000,000 authorized.

So for the two years, the authorized allotments would be slashed $4,200,000,000.

Highway money has been a feuding point between the White House and Congress for months. Eisenhower has asked repeatedly since January that Congress hike the gasoline tax to 4½ cents a gallon, effective July 1, so as to head off a deficit in the highway fund.

Dominican Plane Gunfire Forced U.S. Pilot To Land

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A Dominican Republic plane fired a warning burst of machine gun fire before forcing a U.S. Air Force plane to land, the pilot of the U.S. plane reported Wednesday.

The Air Force C47 with seven men aboard was forced down in Ciudad Trujillo Tuesday.

Maj. George A. Williams, the pilot, said Dominican officers in Ciudad Trujillo seemed as confused as he was about the reason for the interception.

Williams said he heard a report that the pilot of the Dominican plane may have been carrying out an order to intercept any unidentified plane flying in a 30-mile restricted zone about the Caribbean republic.

He said there was no official report of such an order but said the Dominican government may have invoked it because of "revolution jitters."

Rubens Painting Sold For Record $770,000

LONDON (AP)—A London art dealer paid 275,000 pounds—$770,000 — Wednesday for a Rubens painting—and said it was a bargain.

The picture by the 17th century Flemish painter is an altar piece called "The Adoration of the Magi." It shows the Virgin Mary displaying the Christ Child to the Three Wise Men.

Dealer Leonard Koetzer, acting as agent for an unnamed British collector, made the winning bid after beating down American competition.

Senate Group Votes To Make Payrolls Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee voted Wednesday its unanimous approval of a measure that would require making public the names and salaries of all Senate employes.

If the Senate goes along with the committee's move to strip away the secrecy that has concealed the payrolls of most senators, a list of all employes and their salaries will be published four times a year.

The first such report by the secretary of the Senate would cover the three months from July 1 to Sept. 30 this year. It would have to be published by Nov. 30.

The committee's action is in line with a petition to the Senate early this month by the American Society of Newspaper Editors. It said citizens and taxpayers are entitled to know how public funds are spent.

The petition, presented by ASNE President J. R. Wiggins, vice president and executive editor of the Washington Post, said payroll secrecy "protects against disclosure the acts of those who may have illegally, improperly or recklessly disposed of public money." It also spreads unjust suspicion on the innocent, the petition added.

Senate payroll secrecy became an issue early in this session of Congress after disclosure that a number of House members had relatives working for them. The payrolls of House members are open for inspection.

Now, it is left up to individual senators to decide whether to disclose the salaries of their employes. Some senators in recent months have made public this information about their helpers, but most have not.

Bomarcs Hit Targets In Interception Test

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Two IM99A Bomarc missiles were launched successfully Wednesday against a simulated attack by two high-speed jet drones over the Gulf of Mexico.

The Air Force said the 47-foot, ground-to-air missiles made perfect interceptions of their targets more than 100 miles from the launching site on nearby Santa Rosa Island. They were fired within seconds of each other.

"Satchmo" Showing Steady Improvement

French Crush Rebel Attack On Port City

37 Killed In Clash Outside Bone, Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—A recklessly attacking rebel band has been trapped and wiped out on the outskirts of the port of Bone, the French said Wednesday night.

A communique reported 31 rebels were killed and 15 captured Wednesday as thousands of French troops, supported by jet planes and tanks, crushed the advance toward the main Mediterranean city in eastern Algeria.

French army officers said prisoners revealed the band had been dispatched as reinforcements for the Kayblie Mountain area of central Algeria. These officers gave no explanation, however, for the rebels' attack on the heavily populated Bone area.

The French said no nationalist escaped in the eight-hour battle that ended shortly after noon.

Planes dropped incendiary bombs on the rebels and infantry, backed up by tanks, stormed their hastily constructed positions.

Six French soldiers died in the operation, the French said. The number of wounded was not given. Earlier army sources in Bone spoke of 38 French casualties, either wounded or killed.

The heavily outnumbered rebels swept past two small army posts at dawn, after cutting their way through the electrified line of barbed wire along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier.

French troops in the area quickly deployed to cut off their advance toward Bone, a city of about 150,000.

The rebel assault was the largest ever made on a big Algerian city. In 1956 a smaller band approached the outskirts of Tlemcen, a city of 50,000 in northwest Algeria.

The attack on Bone apparently was intended to show both Algerians and the outside world that the 4½-year-old rebellion is still flourishing.

Quads Are Born To Columbia U. Student Couple

NEW YORK (AP)—Quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were born Wednesday to a Columbia University student couple, who live in a small five - room apartment.

"We'll manage though," insisted the father, Alex Kajouras, 30. "Oh, gosh, I've been sweating this out. I'm so glad it's over, that my wife is fine and the babies healthy."

The quadruplets were the first children for the 26-year-old mother Bessie, of Brooklyn. They were expected by Dr. Robert S. Dawson, obstetrical chief at the Public Service Hospital on Staten Island, where the mother had been under treatment since June 1.

Quadruplets occur about three times every two million births, according to insurance statistics on multiple births.

Mrs. Kajouras' babies were described as normal. They were put in incubators as they arrived, over a period of an hour. Only one boy, the largest of the babies, was weighed. He weighed 4 pounds 2½ ounces.

Long's Attorney Spikes Report Of Surprise Move

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP) — The chief attorney for Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long spiked reports Wednesday he would try to free the governor from a mental hospital before scheduled court action at week's end.

Attorney Joe Arthur Sims, top man on the 11-member legal staff for the 63-year-old governor, said he would attempt such a move—if he thought it would work.

Sims indicated that he would not interfere with legal processes that have a habeas corpus hearing on tap at Covington Friday where Long will ask a state district court to free him from the mental hospital at Mandeville.

The application for the hearing before Judge Robert Jones contended Long is confined to a lonely ward at Southwest Louisiana (mental) Hospital illegally.

Sims' announcement had a dampening effect on reports in the State Capitol that Long would leave the hospital—where he has been a patient since last Thursday—almost momentarily.

The reports gained impetus when the governor's wife, who started the chain reaction that resulted in the governor's confinement, slipped out of the state quietly for parts unknown. She would have been the chief opposition witness at Friday's hearing, since she signed the application asking his commitment.

Sims said Mrs. Long's departure "takes all the steam out of the commitment." Other members of the Long family, including Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La), the governor's nephew, have not commented on the governor's latest bid for release.

Crisis Grows; Union's Reply Slated Today

Industry Declares Acceptance Would Postpone Shutdown

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel labor crisis deepened Wednesday night with an industry assertion it is unwilling to grant any boost in labor costs. It called for an indefinite extension of present union contracts.

David J. McDonald, Steelworks said the unions's 171-man Wage Policy Committee will convene Thursday and give the union's answer to the extension proposal.

He declined to say what course he will recommend in the new stalemate. He made it clear he felt frustrated by the industry position.

He noted that under the proposed extension there was no provision to make any eventual contract gains retroactive to July 1. Present contracts expire June 30.

No further union-industry bargaining talks were scheduled. McDonald said he wanted to continue negotiations, but they had not been agreed upon by the industry.

Alternative Is Early Shutdown

The industry position was outlined by R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and chief negotiator for the nation's top steel producers.

He called for a union reply Thursday on the extension proposal. Otherwise, he said, the industry will have to start Friday shutting down furnaces and mills to prepare for a strike starting Wednesday.

Cooper said a contract extension would postpone a shutdown, and provide time for continued negotiations. Either side, he said, could terminate the extended contracts on 10 days notice.

The industry seemed to give the union little room for hope, however, that continued bargaining under extended agreements would yield any labor gains.

Cooper said, "The companies' position that there be no employment cost increase is unchanged."

McDonald said the union has submitted a "noninflationary proposal to the companies of specific character," but declined to say what it contains.

Earlier Reports Deflated

Cooper said, however, the union had offered nothing that the industry could consider as a reasonable basis for settlement. He made it clear, for the first time, too, that the industry's offer made last June 10 never contemplated any immediate wage increase or other concessions.

The new developments deflated reports that had spread earlier in the day that a break in the deadlock appeared imminent, and that the negotiators at last had started trading.

Most observers felt the bargaining crisis might well extend down to the Tuesday night deadline with both sides pressing up to the final hour to maintain as much of their original positions as possible.

McDonald has demanded a substantial wage boost along with improved pensions, insurance and unemployment benefits. He said these could be negotiated in a noninflationary manner.

Senate Cracks Ike Budget Lid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Wednesday broke through President Eisenhower's budget ceiling for the first time in this session of Congress, passing a $4,056,764,581 bill to run the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and other agencies.

The bill carrying 365 million dollars more than the President requested, was approved 83-10.

In an earlier key test vote, the Senate buried by a 70-26 vote a Republican leadership move to cut the bill's major item—$3,551,991,081 for health, education and welfare.

As passed, the bill's total for health, education and welfare is approximately 388 million dollars more than the President requested. The difference of 23 million dollars between this figure and the over-all total of 365 millions more than the administration's request is due to cuts in funds for other government agencies included in the bill.

The measure, which also carries money to finance the Labor Department and various other agencies in fiscal 1960 which starts July 1, is 206 million dollars bigger than the House had voted.

A Senate-House conference committee will take over next to try to work out a compromise.

Old Feuding Point

For the year beginning July 1, 1961, the states would get no more than 500 million out of $2,200,000,000 authorized.

So for the two years, the authorized allotments would be slashed $4,200,000,000.

Highway money has been a feuding point between the White House and Congress for months. Eisenhower has asked repeatedly since January that Congress hike the gasoline tax to 4½ cents a gallon, effective July 1, so as to head off a deficit in the highway fund.

Dominican Plane Gunfire Forced U.S. Pilot To Land

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—A Dominican Republic plane fired a warning burst of machine gun fire before forcing a U.S. Air Force plane to land, the pilot of the U.S. plane reported Wednesday.

The Air Force C47 with seven men aboard was forced down in Ciudad Trujillo Tuesday.

Maj. George A. Williams, the pilot, said Dominican officers in Ciudad Trujillo seemed as confused as he was about the reason for the interception.

Williams said he heard a report that the pilot of the Dominican plane may have been carrying out an order to intercept any unidentified plane flying in a 30-mile restricted zone about the Caribbean republic.

He said there was no official report of such an order but said the Dominican government may have invoked it because of "revolution jitters."

Rubens Painting Sold For Record $770,000

LONDON (AP)—A London art dealer paid 275,000 pounds—$770,000 — Wednesday for a Rubens painting—and said it was a bargain.

The picture by the 17th century Flemish painter is an altar piece called "The Adoration of the Magi." It shows the Virgin Mary displaying the Christ Child to the Three Wise Men.

Dealer Leonard Koetzer, acting as agent for an unnamed British collector, made the winning bid after beating down American competition.

Senate Group Votes To Make Payrolls Public

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee voted Wednesday its unanimous approval of a measure that would require making public the names and salaries of all Senate employes.

If the Senate goes along with the committee's move to strip away the secrecy that has concealed the payrolls of most senators, a list of all employes and their salaries will be published four times a year.

The first such report by the secretary of the Senate would cover the three months from July 1 to Sept. 30 this year. It would have to be published by Nov. 30.

The committee's action is in line with a petition to the Senate early this month by the American Society of Newspaper Editors. It said citizens and taxpayers are entitled to know how public funds are spent.

The petition, presented by ASNE President J. R. Wiggins, vice president and executive editor of the Washington Post, said payroll secrecy "protects against disclosure the acts of those who may have illegally, improperly or recklessly disposed of public money." It also spreads unjust suspicion on the innocent, the petition added.

Senate payroll secrecy became an issue early in this session of Congress after disclosure that a number of House members had relatives working for them. The payrolls of House members are open for inspection.

Now, it is left up to individual senators to decide whether to disclose the salaries of their employes. Some senators in recent months have made public this information about their helpers, but most have not.

Bomarcs Hit Targets In Interception Test

EGLIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Two IM99A Bomarc missiles were launched successfully Wednesday against a simulated attack by two high-speed jet drones over the Gulf of Mexico.

The Air Force said the 47-foot, ground-to-air missiles made perfect interceptions of their targets more than 100 miles from the launching site on nearby Santa Rosa Island. They were fired within seconds of each other.

"Satchmo" Showing Steady Improvement

SPOLETO, Italy (AP) — Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, laid low by an attack of pneumonia, is "sitting up, eating well, talking a lot and looking better," his personal physician said Wednesday.

The 58-year-old New Orleans-born king of jazz came here for an American-European music festival. He was taken to a hospital Tuesday.

French Crush Rebel Attack On Port City

37 Killed In Clash Outside Bone, Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—A recklessly attacking rebel band has been trapped and wiped out on the outskirts of the port of Bone, the French said Wednesday night.

A communique reported 31 rebels were killed and 15 captured Wednesday as thousands of French troops, supported by jet planes and tanks, crushed the advance toward the main Mediterranean city in eastern Algeria.

French army officers said prisoners revealed the band had been dispatched as reinforcements for the Kayblie Mountain area of central Algeria. These officers gave no explanation, however, for the rebels' attack on the heavily populated Bone area.

The French said no nationalist escaped in the eight-hour battle that ended shortly after noon.

Planes dropped incendiary bombs on the rebels and infantry, backed up by tanks, stormed their hastily constructed positions.

Six French soldiers died in the operation, the French said. The number of wounded was not given. Earlier army sources in Bone spoke of 38 French casualties, either wounded or killed.

The heavily outnumbered rebels swept past two small army posts at dawn, after cutting their way through the electrified line of barbed wire along the Tunisian-Algerian frontier.

French troops in the area quickly deployed to cut off their advance toward Bone, a city of about 150,000.

The rebel assault was the largest ever made on a big Algerian city. In 1956 a smaller band approached the outskirts of Tlemcen, a city of 50,000 in northwest Algeria.

The attack on Bone apparently was intended to show both Algerians and the outside world that the 4½-year-old rebellion is still flourishing.

Quads Are Born To Columbia U. Student Couple

NEW YORK (AP)—Quadruplets—three boys and a girl—were born Wednesday to a Columbia University student couple, who live in a small five - room apartment.

"We'll manage though," insisted the father, Alex Kajouras, 30. "Oh, gosh, I've been sweating this out. I'm so glad it's over, that my wife is fine and the babies healthy."

The quadruplets were the first children for the 26-year-old mother Bessie, of Brooklyn. They were expected by Dr. Robert S. Dawson, obstetrical chief at the Public Service Hospital on Staten Island, where the mother had been under treatment since June 1.

Quadruplets occur about three times every two million births, according to insurance statistics on multiple births.

Mrs. Kajouras' babies were described as normal. They were put in incubators as they arrived, over a period of an hour. Only one boy, the largest of the babies, was weighed. He weighed 4 pounds 2½ ounces.

Long's Attorney Spikes Report Of Surprise Move

BATON ROUGE, La., (AP) — The chief attorney for Louisiana Gov. Earl K. Long spiked reports Wednesday he would try to free the governor from a mental hospital before scheduled court action at week's end.

Attorney Joe Arthur Sims, top man on the 11-member legal staff for the 63-year-old governor, said he would attempt such a move—if he thought it would work.

Sims indicated that he would not interfere with legal processes that have a habeas corpus hearing on tap at Covington Friday where Long will ask a state district court to free him from the mental hospital at Mandeville.

The application for the hearing before Judge Robert Jones contended Long is confined to a lonely ward at Southwest Louisiana (mental) Hospital illegally.

Sims' announcement had a dampening effect on reports in the State Capitol that Long would leave the hospital—where he has been a patient since last Thursday—almost momentarily.

The reports gained impetus when the governor's wife, who started the chain reaction that resulted in the governor's confinement, slipped out of the state quietly for parts unknown. She would have been the chief opposition witness at Friday's hearing, since she signed the application asking his commitment.

Sims said Mrs. Long's departure "takes all the steam out of the commitment." Other members of the Long family, including Sen. Russell B. Long (D-La), the governor's nephew, have not commented on the governor's latest bid for release.

Crisis Grows; Union's Reply Slated Today

Industry Declares Acceptance Would Postpone Shutdown

NEW YORK (AP)—The steel labor crisis deepened Wednesday night with an industry assertion it is unwilling to grant any boost in labor costs. It called for an indefinite extension of present union contracts.

David J. McDonald, Steelworks said the unions's 171-man Wage Policy Committee will convene Thursday and give the union's answer to the extension proposal.

He declined to say what course he will recommend in the new stalemate. He made it clear he felt frustrated by the industry position.

He noted that under the proposed extension there was no provision to make any eventual contract gains retroactive to July 1. Present contracts expire June 30.

No further union-industry bargaining talks were scheduled. McDonald said he wanted to continue negotiations, but they had not been agreed upon by the industry.

Alternative Is Early Shutdown

The industry position was outlined by R. Conrad Cooper, executive vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. and chief negotiator for the nation's top steel producers.

He called for a union reply Thursday on the extension proposal. Otherwise, he said, the industry will have to start Friday shutting down furnaces and mills to prepare for a strike starting Wednesday.

Cooper said a contract extension would postpone a shutdown, and provide time for continued negotiations. Either side, he said, could terminate the extended contracts on 10 days notice.

The industry seemed to give the union little room for hope, however, that continued bargaining under extended agreements would yield any labor gains.

Cooper said, "The companies' position that there be no employment cost increase is unchanged."

McDonald said the union has submitted a "noninflationary proposal to the companies of specific character," but declined to say what it contains.

Earlier Reports Deflated

Cooper said, however, the union had offered nothing that the industry could consider as a reasonable basis for settlement. He made it clear, for the first time, too, that the industry's offer made last June 10 never contemplated any immediate wage increase or other concessions.

The new developments deflated reports that had spread earlier in the day that a break in the deadlock appeared imminent, and that the negotiators at last had started trading.

Most observers felt the bargaining crisis might well extend down to the Tuesday night deadline with both sides pressing up to the final hour to maintain as much of their original positions as possible.

McDonald has demanded a substantial wage boost along with improved pensions, insurance and unemployment benefits. He said these could be negotiated in a noninflationary manner.

Senate Cracks Ike Budget Lid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Wednesday broke through President Eisenhower's budget ceiling for the first time in this session of Congress, passing a $4,056,764,581 bill to run the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and other agencies.

The bill carrying 365 million dollars more than the President requested, was approved 83-10.

In an earlier key test vote, the Senate buried by a 70-26 vote a Republican leadership move to cut the bill's major item—$3,551,991,081 for health, education and welfare.

As passed, the bill's total for health, education and welfare is approximately 388 million dollars more than the President requested. The difference of 23 million dollars between this figure and the over-all total of 365 millions more than the administration's request is due to cuts in funds for other government agencies included in the bill.

The measure, which also carries money to finance the Labor Department and various other agencies in fiscal 1960 which starts July 1, is 206 million dollars bigger than the House had voted.

A Senate-House conference committee will take over next to try to work out a compromise.

Goldfine Loses In Attempt To Escape Contempt Trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bernard Goldfine, gift-giving Boston industrialist, Wednesday lost his bid to avoid standing trial on an 18-count contempt of Congress indictment.

Federal District Judge James W. Morris rejected a multi-pronged defense attack on the indictment. He will meet Monday with opposing counsel to fix a date for Goldfine's trial.

The trial has been delayed pending outcome of the defense attack on the indictment. Goldfine's lawyers contended, among other things, that the House subcommittee on legislative oversight framed the questions Goldfine refused to answer from information illegally obtained through eavesdropping, and Goldfine's right to privacy was violated while he conferred with his lawyers.

Judge Morris said, "It is certainly understandable that the defendant should complain and be indignant at the intrusions upon his conversations with his counsel." He added, "It may well be that such should be considered in mitigation of any punishment which would be visited upon him if convicted on the charges in the indictment."

But Morris said, "He cannot thereby wholly escape the consequences of his refusal to answer pertinent questions propounded by the subcommittee in its authorized inquiry into facts necessary for proper legislation. His refusals to answer the questions involved was upon the ground they were not pertinent, and proof of this is the burden he must face."

The maximum penalty upon conviction for contempt of Congress is a year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

Goldfine is under a three-month jail sentence in Boston for failing to produce records sought by the Internal Revenue Service. His secretary Miss Mildred Paperman, is under a 10-day sentence on a similar charge. Both are free on bond pending the outcome of their appeals.

Divorcee's Beaten Nude Body Found

GLEN BURNIE, Md. (AP)—The beaten nude body of an attractive brunette was found Wednesday in the kitchen of her home in Glen Burnie.

Anne Arundel County Police Chief Wilbur Wade said it apparently was a case of homicide. An investigation was under way.

Police identified the dead woman as Mrs. Edith Trumbull, about 30, who was divorced from her soldier husband about two years ago.

Police said the bruised and beaten body was found by a friend and former employer who went to the home after he became concerned about Mrs. Trumbull. The friend told police he had had no word from her for 24 hours.

NEW YORK (AP)—A 14-year-old white girl testified Wednesday she promised intimacies to one of six teen-aged Negro boys accused of raping her last Thursday.

She said she had no intention of allowing him to be intimate, but had made the promise several days earlier to stall him off after they had engaged in kissing and hugging in the junior high school she attended.

The girl, whose name has not been made public by authorities, testified in Queens Adolescent Court that the boy, Jacob Bethea, 16, grabbed her as she came out of the school after an evening recreation program, and dragged her up a flight of stone steps and raped her on a landing.

She said five other Negro boys, shouting and hooting, charged up the steps and assisted Bethea. She claimed one of them, John Rich, also 16, raped her after Bethea was through and that two others fondled her. She identified these two by pointing at them in the courtroom. They were Edward Jacobs, 17, and Henry Stokes, 16.

The girl said she first met Bethea the Monday preceding her attack. She testified they met at Junior High School 16 in the Corona section of Queens. She described Bethea as a former student at the school and that she showed him around during that evening's recreation program, pointing out the changes since he had been a student there.

They began hugging and kissing, she continued.

The girl said that after that Monday's experience, "I was scared to see him again."

TFC Pushes Chesapeake Restoration

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission moved forward Wednesday on a program to get packers and watermen pulling together on a rehabilitation of Chesapeake Bay resources.

It authorized Chairman H. C. Byrd to arrange a meeting with packers at which views could be gathered on problems and proposed solutions as viewed by the packers.

Similar meetings are to be held with waterman groups.

Byrd said it is the eventual hope of the commission to have a special council of packers and watermen to work closely with the TFC.

It was noted that the packers already have an organization. Byrd said watermen could set up local councils and from these pick a state council to work with the corresponding agency of packers.

"We need every interest in the state of Maryland behind us that we can get," he said.

The commission also authorized Byrd to explore the feasibility of dredging oyster shells from beneath the bottom of Chesapeake Bay for use as cultch for oyster larvae to attach to in seed areas.

The commission previously decided to step up production of seed oysters by planting an extra 500,000 bushels of shells in areas where oyster larvae will strike them — if it could find the shells.

The girl, whose name has not been made public by authorities, testified in Queens Adolescent Court that the boy, Jacob Bethea, 16, grabbed her as she came out of the school after an evening recreation program, and dragged her up a flight of stone steps and raped her on a landing.

She said five other Negro boys, shouting and hooting, charged up the steps and assisted Bethea. She claimed one of them, John Rich, also 16, raped her after Bethea was through and that two others fondled her. She identified these two by pointing at them in the courtroom. They were Edward Jacobs, 17, and Henry Stokes, 16.

The girl said she first met Bethea the Monday preceding her attack. She testified they met at Junior High School 16 in the Corona section of Queens. She described Bethea as a former student at the school and that she showed him around during that evening's recreation program, pointing out the changes since he had been a student there.

They began hugging and kissing, she continued.

The girl said that after that Monday's experience, "I was scared to see him again."

No Gift For Queen

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II won't get a present from the city of Windsor when she visits here July 3. City Manager E. Royden Colter feels the city is already bearing a large share of the costs of the royal visit to Canada and besides, he said, they aren't coming to Canada looking for gifts.

TFC Pushes Chesapeake Restoration

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Tidewater Fisheries Commission moved forward Wednesday on a program to get packers and watermen pulling together on a rehabilitation of Chesapeake Bay resources.

It authorized Chairman H. C. Byrd to arrange a meeting with packers at which views could be gathered on problems and proposed solutions as viewed by the packers.

Similar meetings are to be held with waterman groups.

Byrd said it is the eventual hope of the commission to have a special council of packers and watermen to work closely with the TFC.

It was noted that the packers already have an organization. Byrd said watermen could set up local councils and from these pick a state council to work with the corresponding agency of packers.

"We need every interest in the state of Maryland behind us that we can get," he said.

The commission also authorized Byrd to explore the feasibility of dredging oyster shells from beneath the bottom of Chesapeake Bay for use as cultch for oyster larvae to attach to in seed areas.

The commission previously decided to step up production of seed oysters by planting an extra 500,000 bushels of shells in areas where oyster larvae will strike them — if it could find the shells.

Live Polio Virus Vaccine Safe, Russ Scientists Say

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Soviet scientists told an international health conference Tuesday that live virus polio vaccine is safe, effective and has definite advantages over the Salk killed-virus vaccine used in the United States.

Live virus vaccine has been administered to more than 2,250,000 persons in Russia during the past two years. The first formal scientific report on the results was presented by Dr. M.P. Chumakov, director of the Polio Research Institute of Moscow, before a 20-nation polio vaccine conference sponsored by the World Health Organization.

He said the Soviet mass vaccination program has yielded "convincing proof" that live virus vaccine is safe.

New Vaccine Announced

Only two definitely diagnosed cases of polio and two "doubtful" cases have been recorded among children receiving the vaccine. And Chumakov said evidence indicates these cases resulted from spontaneous natural infection rather than from the vaccine.

Live virus vaccines are not licensed for use in the United States. The U.S. Public Health Service is not convinced they are safe, and it believes Americans should stick for now at least to the proven protection of Salk shots.

Another pioneer researcher on live virus vaccines, Dr. Herald R. Cox of the Lederle Laboratories, told the conference he has developed a successful "trivalent" vaccine in which a single dose, taken by mouth, gives immunity to all three types of polio.

Previous studies have indicated that three separate doses of live virus vaccine were required, one for each type of virus.

Grateful To Salk

Chumakov said the whole world is "grateful to Dr. Jonas Salk for his great contribution to modern medicine" in developing a killed virus polio vaccine. But he said Salk vaccine "cannot be considered quite satisfactory for certain countries for eradication of epidemic poliomyelitis."

He said the Salk vaccine fails to give protection to "a relatively large proportion of vaccinees—up to 20 to 30 per cent." It is costly to produce and has to be administered by injection "which is not very convenient for mass inoculations of millions of people."

The most serious defect of killed virus vaccine, the Soviet scientist said, is that it does not stop polio germs from circulating in the general population and causing epidemics among the unvaccinated.

The killed virus vaccine, he said, protects the vaccinated person against paralysis but does not prevent polio germs from multiplying in his body and being passed on to others.

Chumakov said live virus vaccine—in which the polio germs have been weakened so that they do not cause paralysis but do give immunity to the disease—"seems to us most promising."

Economic Indicators Still Pointing Up

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Business is moving forward with considerable speed and most major economic indicators are pointing up, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.

It reported substantial gains in April, May and June, for income, production, employment and new orders.

The department's monthly survey of the business situation said "the strengthening demand for durable goods has resulted in a reduction in pockets of substantial unemployment that had persisted in some industrial centers."

"The strong spring advance" in the number of people working continued into May, the department said.

Auto sales in the past two months exceeded the depressed year-ago levels by 40 per cent.

Maternity Ward Closed

Mother, Two Of Three Sons Perish In Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Jean Delbrook dropped her 18-month-old son Mottio into the arms of a neighbor from a second-floor window of her home Wednesday, then died in a fire which trapped her and two other youngsters.

Perry Hairsine, a neighbor, told firemen he heard a woman screaming and he rushed out of his house to find the Delbrook home in flames.

Mrs. Delbrook sobbed from the second floor window:

"Get my kids. Get my kids."

Hairsine was unable to enter the building because of the heat and flames. The woman dropped the baby to him and disappeared in the flames, apparently trying to rescue her three-week-old infant Michael, and Chuckie, 3.

The father, Raymond, was at work at the time. He is a truck driver.

The fire was extinguished in a brief time. The bodies of the victims were found in the ruins.

3-Day Chicken Festival Opens Today At Dover

DOVER, Del. (AP) — This historic capital of the nation's first state will begin paying tribute tomorrow to one of the Delmarva Peninsula's major businesses—the chicken.

If the weatherman cooperates, more than 50,000 visitors are expected to participate in a three-day schedule of events ending Saturday night with an official welcoming of the nation's newest state—Hawaii—into the Union by Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

The cooking contest has drawn champions from 27 states and one from Casablanca, French Morocco. The entrant from overseas is Mrs. William Colon.

As usual, the world's original largest frying pan—10 feet across and holding 100 gallons of cooking oil—will be in service all three days with 18 chefs in attendance preparing more than 30,000 pieces of chicken for festival visitors.

Thursday's schedule includes the finals of the Miss Delmarva Junior Beauty Contest for 6-year-olds and under and finals of the Miss Delmarva beauty pageant for misses of more advanced years.

There will be a poultry barbecue demonstration, presentation of art exhibit awards, and the announcement of Delmarva's distinguished citizen award.

The National Cooking Contest will be held Friday.

Police said the child was hit while walking across a street with his 18-year-old brother, Warren. The ball had been batted by a youth playing soft ball.

Heat's On Policemen In Baltimore County

BALTIMORE (AP) — The heat will be on Baltimore County cops for the rest of the summer. No short-sleeved shirts while on duty, Chief Gilbert L. Deyle declared Wednesday "after much thought and discussion."

The reason?

"You'd be surprised how many people take offense to see an officer with tattoes on his arm or showing a partial expanse of hairy chest," said the chief.

"It was these things, among others, that we felt detracted from the dignity of the officer's position..."

Mother, Two Of Three Sons Perish In Fire

BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Jean Delbrook dropped her 18-month-old son Mottio into the arms of a neighbor from a second-floor window of her home Wednesday, then died in a fire which trapped her and two other youngsters.

Perry Hairsine, a neighbor, told firemen he heard a woman screaming and he rushed out of his house to find the Delbrook home in flames.

Mrs. Delbrook sobbed from the second floor window:

"Get my kids. Get my kids."

Hairsine was unable to enter the building because of the heat and flames. The woman dropped the baby to him and disappeared in flames, apparently trying to rescue her three-week-old infant Michael, and Chuckie, 3.

The father, Raymond, was at work at the time. He is a truck driver.

The fire was extinguished in a brief time. The bodies of the victims were found in the ruins.

Eastern Shore Youth, 20, Maryland Star Farmer

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—A 20-year-old Eastern Shore youth who stepped into the role of running the family farm when his father was killed has been selected Maryland Star Farmer.

Raymond N. Welch, eldest of three sons of Mrs. Nannie Welch Potts of Route 3, Salisbury, will be honored during the Maryland Future Farmers of American convention which opened at the University of Maryland Wednesday.

Welch won the Star Farmer award and the $200 prize over 45 other young farmers who were awarded the Maryland Farmer degree at the FFA meeting.

Young Welch's father was killed in an automobile accident five years ago. The boy's personal investment in farming is already over $10,000 and he has purchased a one-fourth interest in the home place. His main crops are 20 acres of field corn and 80 acres of soybeans. He also owns eight sows, two boars and a number of young pigs.

3-Day Chicken Festival Opens Today At Dover

DOVER, Del. (AP) — This historic capital of the nation's first state will begin paying tribute tomorrow to one of the Delmarva Peninsula's major businesses—the chicken.

If the weatherman cooperates, more than 50,000 visitors are expected to participate in a three-day schedule of events ending Saturday night with an official welcoming of the nation's newest state—Hawaii—into the Union by Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs.

The cooking contest has drawn champions from 27 states and one from Casablanca, French Morocco. The entrant from overseas is Mrs. William Colon.

As usual, the world's original largest frying pan—10 feet across and holding 100 gallons of cooking oil—will be in service all three days with 18 chefs in attendance preparing more than 30,000 pieces of chicken for festival visitors.

Thursday's schedule includes the finals of the Miss Delmarva Junior Beauty Contest for 6-year-olds and under and finals of the Miss Delmarva beauty pageant for misses of more advanced years.

There will be a poultry barbecue demonstration, presentation of art exhibit awards, and the announcement of Delmarva's distinguished citizen award.

The National Cooking Contest will be held Friday.

Harbor Tunnel, Toll Bridge Traffic Rises

BALTIMORE (AP) — Improved weather and better business conditions have increased traffic through the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel and on Maryland's three major toll bridges, the State Roads Commission reported Wednesday.

The commission's Toll Facilities Department said that 92,728 more vehicles passed through the harbor tunnel the first 15 days of June than in the same period last year. The 15 day total was 539,962.

Traffic on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge, Potomac River Bridge and the Susquehanna River Bridge was up 20,257, jumping the total for the first 15 days of the current month to 660,592.

The volume of cars using the tunnel in May was 27.18 per cent heavier than May, 1958. The gain for the Bay bridge was 13.31 per cent, Potomac bridge 9.06 per cent, and Susquehanna 6.79 per cent.

The victim was 20-year-old Sidney Smith. He was injured Saturday when his car went off Fort Smallwood Road near Carvel Beach, skidded for 325 feet and then hit a sign post.

Iraq In Serious Economic Difficulty As Cost Of Living Soars Upward

By STAN CARTER

ROME (AP) —Iraq is in serious economic difficulty.

A private economist estimates national production has dropped 40 per cent since last July's revolution. Wages have increased 30 per cent.

Iraqi officials deny the economist's figures, but they jibe with the observation of foreigners in the country and with the few statistics available.

Iraqis are beginning to ask why the cost of living is going up. Rents and the prices of some foods are held down by law. But newspapers have complained about high prices.

The country's few industries have been plagued by strikes and other disturbances.

Ittihad al-Shaab, the Communist newspaper which regards itself as spokesman for the working class, denies workers have been at fault. It blames the troubles on mismanagement.

The individual worker thinks he has never had it so good. For the first time in his life he belongs to a labor union.

If he doesn't like a boss he can complain to the union—and frequently get the boss dismissed. The union is dominated by the Communists, whom the worker holds in high regard.

His pay is higher, and under the labor law enacted by the revolutionary regime he cannot be fired.

Iraq has basically an agrarian economy, with an addition of oil revenues. There are fewer than 50,000 industrial workers compared to two million agricultural workers.

Agricultural land is being confiscated from the big landowners to be redistributed to the agricultural workers under the agrarian reform law passed last fall. Most of the agricultural workers seem to think the land will be a gift from the government, although the law provides for them to pay for it over a 20-year period.

Even before the July, 1958, revolution that destroyed Iraq's pro-Western monarchy, Iraq had a sort of modified state socialism, with most of the industry owned by the government—and most of it losing money.

With a 550-million ruble loan received from the Soviet Union, the Iraqis hope to further industrialize the country. At the official rate, 550 million rubles equals about $137,500,000.

The emphasis of the country's development program, financed by revenues from the oil concession to the internationally-owned Iraq Petroleum Co., was on construction of dams and roads and other long term improvement projects before the revolution. Now it is on housing.

Sme of the revenues allotted to development before the revolution had to be diverted to the regular government budget to take up the slack in the economy and pay for increased social services.

Despite labor troubles the IPC is increasing oil production to an all-time high. But the Iraqis will not receive the amount of revenue they hoped because of a drop in the world oil price.

Floods Hit India

CALCUTTA, India (UPI)—Army troops have moved in to help civilian authorities to fight floods in northern Assam Province where more than 12 persons already have died and thousands left homeless, it was reported Wednesday.

Chinese Kidnaped

HONG KONG (UPI) — Police launched what they called "the biggest man hunt in years" Wednesday after a prominent Chinese disappeared and his wife received ransom notes and a part of a human ear. Wong Ying Kau vanished after leaving a night club last Friday. On Monday Wong's wife received a ransom note, demanding $90,000. With the note was part of a human ear.

Congress Has Been Target Of Criticism For Century And A Half

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody ever seems to have a good word for Congress. It talks too much. It fritters, it's frivolous when it should be serious, and serious when it should be frivolous.

From the start, there has been criticism.

And a most respected member of the early congresses, Rep. Fisher Ames of Massachusetts, complained in a note to a friend:

"Congress is too inefficient to afford the stuff for a letter. No public body exists with less energy and character to do good, or stronger propensities for mischief."

Since these sour reports have rolled in for a century and a half, they must have some merit. Yet, in fairness, it should be pointed out that Congress can hustle when it wants to.

The Senate recently offered a good example. It dawdled on forever, or so it seemed, before it said no, it didn't want Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. Yet it needed but a jiffy to approve Christian A. Herter as secretary of state.

But, even as you and I, Congress can't spend all its time thinking lofty thoughts or slaving over major legislation.

Routine, humdrum work must be done. Each session Congress passes hundreds of bills. Some correct an injustice done an individual. Some may be of importance nationally, but are technical and not controversial. Nearly all of these become laws without rating a line of type in any newspaper, much less a headline.

The scene is familiar in both houses. The clerk hawks out the next bill. If no one has any objections, the bills pass as fast as a gavel can be pounded.

Or perhaps Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall (D-Colo) may cut in with:

"Mr. Speaker, at the request of a member who is necessarily absent at this time I ask unanimous consent that this bill be passed over without prejudice."

Often, especially in the Senate, this objection is abortened to one word: "Over." It means no action will be taken now, although the bill may be brought up and passed later.

Aspinall has had this thankless job of professional objector since he came to Congress 10 years ago. He and two other Democrats, plus three Republicans, sit as a sort of police court.

"We try to make sure," Aspinall said, "that the bill has no opposition downtown." That is, that the executive departments don't object to it. "And we don't take bills involving more than a million dollars or those that involve a change in policy."

The advantage of a system like this is obvious. Bills can come out of committee and be whisked right along.

One point to remember. The bills may not mean much to us as a nation, but to the individuals seeking relief they may be as important as life itself.

Tensions Lurk Under Surface In Paraguay

By BRIAN BELL

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Native women smoking black cigars pad over the 16th century cobblestones of this ancient capital.

The water vendor clomps by in his cart and teen-age girls tote his wares away in cans balanced on their pretty heads.

But beneath the surface of this California-sized land of 1,600,000 people lurk tensions.

For Paraguay is the last stronghold of dictatorship in South America. The country's 44-year old strongman, Alfredo Stroessner, faces pressure from without and within: the often-voiced antepathy of Fidel Castro, a barrage of criticism from Buenos Aires newspapers, the silent threat of thousands of exiled Paraguayans just outside the border, a split within his own political party.

Paraguay has all the trappings of one-man rule. The airport, a newly built interior city, and the government-owned airliners are all named Stroessner. There is no freedom of the press. A rubber-stamp congress approves whatever the executive proposes.

Unlike other rulers who have been content to sit in capitals and listen to soothing words from their generals that all was well, Stroessner sees for himself. Hardly a week goes by that the general does not visit a military camp, eat mess with the men, hear the problems of the troops in the field.

Also, Stroessner takes care of his own. High ranking military men drive big American automobiles. A police official is building a $30,000 weekend place at a lake resort near here.

The grumbling opposition points out that 35 per cent of the nation's budget goes to the military. On a tour of Asuncion they show you expensive construction going up for the army and the Colorado party. They claim no needed hospitals or education centers are being built. They speak long and convincingly that United States aid to Paraguay is propping up Stroessner.

U. S. Ambassador Walter Ploeser, a St. Louis insurance executive, can reel off where the 23½ million dollars is going.

"This aid is for the Paraguayan people," he says. "It is not for any political group. And the money has been well spent."

Diplomatic sources say Stroessner promised the ambassador he would allow more freedom in return for U. S. aid. Unofficial talk is that he has been told that unless he keeps his word there will be no more United States money forthcoming.

Stroessner has troubles with his own Colorado party. A faction headed by a former power in the party, Epifanio Mendez Fleitas, is breathing revolutionary words from exile in Montevideo. The Colorados at home are demanding more for them and less for the military.

There is a revolutionary movement here and similar setups by exiles in Argentine border towns. Many say Fidel Castro and his supporters are sending funds to help the revolutionaries. The Buenos Aires newspapers led by influential "La Prensa" level a constant barrage of criticism at Stroessner. A group of young Catholic priests, spearheaded by the Rev. Ramon Talavera, now in exile in Montevideo, are speaking out against the government.

Right now, the quiet, unpretentious strongman, rules with a sure hand in spite of the numerous pressures upon him. How long he can keep the military in line is the question.

Pledges Exchanged

TOKYO (UPI) — President Sukarno of Indonesia arrived Wednesday at Hanoi on a five-day "friendly visit" to communist North Viet Nam, the communist New China News Agency reported. The agency said Sukarno was welcomed by President Ho Chi Minh and other top-ranking government and party leaders. It reported Sukarno and Ho exchanged pledges to support each other's "struggles" against colonialists.

Death Ends Sad, Strange Story Of Bela Kovacs

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

This is the story of a conservative political leader who hated first fascism and then communism, yet who died under the cloud of collaboration.

It's a strange story, and a sad one, about what can happen to a strong believer in liberty caught behind the Iron Curtain and bereft of hope.

Bela Kovacs emerged from the anti-Nazi underground of World War II as leader of the Hungarian peasant Smallholders party which beat the Communists in a free election in 1945. But the Soviet army was there, and the Communists soon took over through a coup.

In 1947 Kovacs was arrested, and spent years in jail in occupied Austria, Hungary and Siberia. Finally permitted to return to Hungary in 1955, his friends described him as a broken man.

But he remained a hero to the peasants even though living in the obscurity of his native village. In the last stages of the 1956 anti-Communist revolution, he was appointed by the revolutionary leader Imre Nagy as minister of state and minister of agriculture, perhaps without prior consultation. He returned to Budapest in the last stages of the revolution and was persuaded to serve. But the Soviet army crushed the revolt.

At the U.S. Embassy, the dispatches Kovacs said the revolution had been a mistake, and that his acceptance of Nagy's urgings had been a mistake.

He was disillusioned because the revolt had received no help from the West. The peasants, he said, must now make the best of the Communist way prescribed from Moscow.

He would not, however, join the government of puppet Premier Janos Kadar, despite repeated urgings. Kovacs again sought obscurity.

But last fall the world was surprised and saddened by his election to Parliament on the one-party ticket of the puppeteers. And more so by a statement apologizing for his previous anti-Communist stand.

A broken man, still trying to help his peasant supporters, devoid of hope of liberation, was just trying to do, with his last feeble spark, what he could do from the inside instead of living in futility on the outside.

The spark of liberty had been crushed in Bela Kovacs.

NEA Teacher Report Gloomy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Education Assn. reported Tuesday that the current shortage of qualified teachers in American colleges and universities was likely to get worse unless the schools' financial resources were "vastly expanded."

It said in a gloomy report that the situation already was serious —especially in regard to teachers of such vital subjects as science, mathematics and engineering. It added that the shortage could grow steadily more acute in the next 10 years.

The report was based on a nationwide survey conducted by the NEA's research division. It covered 858 institutions, public and private, large and small, in all sections of the country.

Of these, 762 reported shortages of qualified teachers in one or more fields. The most prevalent shortages were in the physical sciences (465 institutions), mathematics (424), business and commerce (144) and engineering (138).

Even more disturbing, according to Dr. Ray C. Maul, author of the report, was the evidence turned up by the survey that colleges are lowering their faculty standards in order to fill teaching positions that would otherwise remain vacant.

Communist Elected

LONDON (UPI) — Communist Frank Foulkes was elected president of the shipbuilding and engineering unions Tuesday. The federation represents 3,000,000 workers.

Iraq In Serious Economic Difficulty As Cost Of Living Soars Upward

By STAN CARTER

ROME (AP) — Iraq is in serious economic difficulty.

A private economist estimates national production has dropped 40 per cent since last July's revolution. Wages have increased 30 per cent.

Iraqi officials deny the economist's figures, but they jibe with the observation of foreigners in the country and with the few statistics available.

Iraqis are beginning to ask why the cost of living is going up. Rents and the prices of some foods are held down by law. But newspapers have complained about high prices.

The country's few industries have been plagued by strikes and other disturbances.

Ittihad al-Shaab, the Communist newspaper which regards itself as spokesman for the working class, denies workers have been at fault. It blames the troubles on mismanagement.

The individual worker thinks he has never had it so good. For the first time in his life he belongs to a labor union.

If he doesn't like a boss he can complain to the union—and frequently get the boss dismissed.

The union is dominated by the Communists, whom the worker holds in high regard.

His pay is higher, and under the labor law enacted by the revolutionary regime he cannot be fired.

Iraq has basically an agrarian economy, with an addition of oil revenues. There are fewer than 50,000 industrial workers compared to two million agricultural workers.

Agricultural land is being confiscated from the big landowners to be redistributed to the agricultural workers under the agrarian reform law passed last fall. Most of the agricultural workers seem to think the land will be a gift from the government, although the law provides for them to pay for it over a 20-year period.

Even before the July, 1958, revolution that destroyed Iraq's pro-Western monarchy, Iraq had a sort of modified state socialism, with most of the industry owned by the government—and most of it losing money.

With a 550-million ruble loan received from the Soviet Union, the Iraqis hope to further industrialize the country. At the official rate, 550 million rubles equals about $137,500,000.

The emphasis of the country's development program, financed by revenues from the oil concession to the internationally-owned Iraq Petroleum Co., was on construction of dams and roads and other long term improvement projects before the revolution. Now it is on housing.

Sme of the revenues allotted to development before the revolution had to be diverted to the regular government budget to take up the slack in the economy and pay for increased social services.

Despite labor troubles the IPC is increasing oil production to an all-time high. But the Iraqis will not receive the amount of revenue they hoped because of a drop in the world oil price.

Floods Hit India

CALCUTTA, India (UPI)—Army troops have moved in to help civilian authorities to fight floods in northern Assam Province where more than 12 persons already have died and thousands left homeless, it was reported Wednesday.

Chinese Kidnaped

HONG KONG (UPI) — Police launched what they called "the biggest man hunt in years" Wednesday after a prominent Chinese disappeared and his wife received ransom notes and a part of a human ear. Wong Ying Kau vanished after leaving a night club last Friday. On Monday Wong's wife received a ransom note, demanding $90,000. With the note was part of a human ear.

Here's our first vice president, John Adams, writing to his wife Abigail:

And a most respected member of the early congresses, Rep. Fisher Ames of Massachusetts, complained in a note to a friend:

"Congress is too inefficient to afford the stuff for a letter. No public body exists with less energy and character to do good, or stronger propensities for mischief."

Congress Has Been Target Of Criticism For Century And A Half

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody ever seems to have a good word for Congress. It talks too much. It fritters. It's frivolous when it should be serious, and serious when it should be frivolous.

From the start, there has been criticism.

Since these sour reports have roiled in for a century and a half, they must have some merit. Yet, in fairness, it should be pointed out that Congress can hustle when it wants to.

The Senate recently offered a good example. It dawdled on forever, or so it seemed, before it said no. It didn't want Lewis L. Strauss as secretary of commerce. Yet it needed but a jiffy to approve Christian A. Herter as secretary of state.

But, even as you and I, Congress can't spend all its time thinking lofty thoughts or slaving over major legislation.

Routine, humdrum work must be done. Each session Congress passes hundreds of bills. Some correct an injustice done an individual. Some may be of importance nationally, but are technical and not controversial. Nearly all of these become laws without rating a line of type in any newspaper, much less a headline.

The scene is familiar in both houses. The clerk hawls out the next bill. If no one has any objections, the bills runs as fast as a gavel can be pounded.

Or perhaps Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall (D-Colo) may cut in with:

"Mr. Speaker, at the request of a member who is necessarily absent at this time I ask unanimous consent that this bill be passed over without prejudice."

Often, especially in the Senate, this objection is shortened to one word: "Over." It means no action will be taken now, although the bill may be brought up and passed later.

Aspinall has had this thankless job of professional objector since he came to Congress 10 years ago. He and two other Democrats, plus three Republicans, sit as a sort of police court.

"We try to make sure," Aspinall said, "that the bill has no opposition downtown." (That is, that the executive departments don't object to it). "And we don't take bills involving more than a million dollars or those that involve a change in policy."

The advantage of a system like this is obvious. Bills can come out of committee and be whisked right along.

One point to remember: The bills may not mean much to us as a nation, but to the individuals seeking relief they may be as important as life itself.

Tensions Lurk Under Surface In Paraguay

By BRIAN BELL

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Native women smoking black cigars pad over the 16th century cobblestones of this ancient capital.

The water vendor clomps by in his cart and teen-age girls tote his wares away in cans balanced on their pretty heads.

But beneath the surface of this California-sized land of 1,600,000 people lurk tensions.

For Paraguay is the last stronghold of dictatorship in South America. The country's 44-year old strongman, Alfredo Stroessner, faces pressure from without and within: the often-voiced antipathy of Fidel Castro, a barrage of criticism from Buenos Aires newspapers, the silent threat of thousands of exiled Paraguayans just outside the border, a split within his own political party.

Paraguay has all the trappings of one-man rule. The airport, a newly built interior city, and the government-owned airliners are all named Stroessner. There is no freedom of the press. A rubber-stamp congress approves whatever the executive proposes.

Unlike other rulers who have been content to sit in capitals and listen to soothing words from their generals that all was well, Stroessner sees for himself. Hardly a week goes by that the general does not visit a military camp, eat mess with the men, hear the problems of the troops in the field.

Also, Stroessner takes care of his own. High ranking military men drive big American automobiles. A police official is building a $30,000 weekend place at a lake resort near here.

The grumbling opposition points out that 35 per cent of the nation's budget goes to the military. On a tour of Asuncion they show you expensive construction going up for the army and the Colorado party. They claim no needed hospitals or education centers are being built. They speak long and convincingly that United States aid to Paraguay is propping up Stroessner.

U. S. Ambassador Walter Ploeser, a St. Louis insurance executive, can reel off where the 23½ million dollars is going.

"This aid is for the Paraguayan people," he says. "It is not for any political group. And the money has been well spent."

Diplomatic sources say Stroessner promised the ambassador he would allow more freedom in return for U. S. aid. Unofficial talk is that he has been told that unless he keeps his word there will be no more United States money forthcoming.

Stroessner has troubles with his own Colorado party. A faction headed by a former power in the party, Epifanio Mendez Fleitas, is breathing revolutionary words from exile in Montevideo. The Colorados at home are demanding more for them and less for the military.

There is a revolutionary movement here and similar setups by exiles in Argentine border towns. Many say Fidel Castro and his supporters are sending funds to help the revolutionaries. The Buenos Aires newspapers led by influential "La Prensa" level a constant barrage of criticism at Stroessner. A group of young Catholic priests, spearheaded by the Rev. Ramon Talavera, now in exile in Montevideo, are speaking out against the government.

Right now, the quiet, unpretentious strongman, rules with a sure hand in spite of the numerous pressures upon him. How long he can keep the military in line is the question.

Pledges Exchanged

TOKYO (UPI) — President Sukarno of Indonesia arrived Wednesday at Hanoi on a five-day "friendly visit" to communist North Viet Nam, the communist New China News Agency reported. The agency said Sukarno was welcomed by President Ho Chi Minh and other top-ranking government and party leaders. It reported Sukarno and Ho exchanged pledges to support each other's "struggles" against colonialists.

Carver School

said the plan would improve conditions for all of the children and he considered it "silly" not to use the Carver facility.

Mr. Malcolm then commented upon a letter which Mr. Miller had mailed last week to the four other board members, in which Mr. Miller pointed out that under an insurance schedule submitted to the Board of Education June 16 by Robert E. Barnard Jr., insurance consultant, the recommended insurance value of Carver School is $318,150 and contents value of $23,200. Gephart School has a recommended insurance value of $81,900 and contents value of $8,200.

Mr. Miller wrote:

"I cannot, in good conscience, vote and/or recommend to lay aside and allow to become unused, a school facility having a value in excess of $300,000 for no other reason than emotional reaction of the parents. This is not good business and would have a terrific impact on the tax structure and also be highly objectionable to the majority of the taxpayers of Allegany County."

No Solutions Offered

When called upon for his views, Mr. Miller said that he had received a number of letters in opposition to the merger but not a single one offered a logical solution to the matter. Mrs. Richard Winer, as the newest board member, said she saw no reason for the board to reverse the tentative stand taken in support of the merger March 17,

J. Goodloe Jackson, president of the board, then read a four-page statement of his opposition to the merger.

"If the proposed plan had been acceptable to a majority of the patrons of Gephart School, I would have gladly favored the plan," Mr. Jackson wrote. However, over 95 per cent of the patrons of Gephart School registered an objection to the plan and over 500 taxpayers signed a petition asking us to abandon it . . .

"It has astounded me that no outside voice has been raised favoring this plan. Over 600 qualified voters of the county, through petitions, opposed the plan. Should we ignore the 600 taxpayers because we think somebody might not agree with them?

"It is my recommendation to this board that we ask our most able superintendent of schools to draw up a plan more in keeping with the wishes of the patrons of Gephart School. Of course, you are urged to vote against the plan now under consideration," he concluded.

McClung-Logan Bid Is Low

McClung-Logan Equipment Company, Inc., Baltimore, submitted the apparent low net bid of $14,130 to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners for a new tractor shovel and dozer for the county roads department.

Bids submitted by three firms on the equipment will be considered by County Roads Supervisor Harry T. Skelly and the commissioners before action is taken.

Morgan Brothers, Frostburg, submitted a net bid of $15,000 and Rish Equipment Company, LaVale, offered two proposals, one for $16,350.25 and the other for $17,425.25.

The McClung-Logan bid was $17,021.30 for the tractor shovel and $650 for the dozer, a total of $17,671,30 less $3,541.30 trade-in on a truck loader, making the net $14,130. Morgan bid $16,472.37 plus $742 for the dozer attachment less a trade-in of $2,214.37, making the net $15,000.

Rish submitted a base bid of $17,965.25 on its more expensive crawler shovel plus $960 for the dozer blade, less a trade-in of $1,500 on the truck loader, leaving the net $17,425.25. On its second bid, Rish submitted a price of $16,890.25 for the crawler tractor plus $960 for the dozer blade, less the $1,500 trade-in for the truck loader, a net of $16,350.25.

This equipment will be kept at the Oldtown garage.

House Committee Backs C&O Canal Park Bill

The full House Interior Committee yesterday reported favorably to the floor of the House of Representatives the bill sponsored by Rep. John R. Foley calling for the establishment of a C&O Canal national historic park.

Rep. Foley said the measure approved is HR 2331 passed in its original form with the exception of an amendment which states:

"Any portion of the lands and interests in lands comprising the C&O Canal national historic park shall be made available upon federal statutory authorization for public non-park uses when such uses shall have been found, in consideration of public interests, to be of greater necessity than the uses authorized by this act."

The Sixth District Congressman said the C&O Canal historic park has a better chance of becoming a reality in this session of Congress than it has had in several years.

The bill creates a 160-mile long park along the canal between Cumberland and Great Falls. It also calls for the administration and maintenance of a parkway in Maryland.

This parkway, on high ground above the canal, would be between Maryland Route 51 near Paw Paw to Long Ridge near Woodmont.

Last week, Rep. Foley's bill failed to reach a report status when no quorum could be established by the Interior Committee.

Players To Meet

Storm Sewer Bids Sought

The State Roads Commission is advertising for bids on a contract to install sections of storm sewer on the south side of Route 40 in LaVale from the Cash Valley Road to near Super 40 Drive-In.

The bids will be opened by the commission in Baltimore on Tuesday, July 14, at noon.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was the low bidder on the 1.94-mile project between the same two points for curbing and guttering and resurfacing Route 40.

However, State Roads officials at the district office pointed out that the original contract called for an open stretch of roadway with shoulders built up.

Storm drainage would have continued to follow its present courses, which in a number of cases were over properties of residents of the south side of the highway.

A group of these homeowners met with SRC officials and requested that the drainage be rectified in the new contract.

Plans were modified, a spokesman said yesterday, and the new contract was ordered. It was pointed out that curbing and guttering was in the original project.

The storm sewerage will be constructed in four or five sections, and will not be continuous. The SRC said it will be placed where the terrain requires it.

Group Asks Repairs On Dump Road

Maintenance of Limestone Road, which has been a bone of contention between the city and county for a number of years, again came up for discussion at Tuesday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

A delegation of three women residents of the road, which leads to the city and county garbage dumps, appeared before the board to ask that the road be repaired and placed in the county roads system. Six families reside on Limestone Road.

Spokesman for the delegation was William R. Carscaden, city attorney, who explained he had offered his services when the group earlier had asked the city to repair the roadway. Carscaden explained that the city has no jurisdiction over Limestone Road since it is outside the city limits.

Six families reside on the road, the city attorney said, adding that the delegation in particular wanted something done about a bad dust condition. He also noted that the road is regularly used by large, heavy trucks hauling trash to the dump.

In a brief resume of the history of the road, Carscaden explained that the city had entered into an agreement with residents of Limestone Road in 1940 when the city purchased the dump site. The agreement, however, did not cover maintenance of the road, the city attorney stressed.

Leslie J. Clark, the county attorney, informed the delegation that residents of the road would have to comply with certain procedures before Limestone Road could be taken into the county system.

Clark also explained that roads in the system are maintained by money derived from the state's gasoline tax, and to take an unimproved road into the system would place an unjust burden on the county.

In response to an inquiry from John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Commissioners, Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, said he estimated the cost of improving the road to meet with county standards at more than $29,000.

Skelly said a major problem would be widening of the road since a steep embankment is along almost the entire length of the roadway and a sheer drop borders the other side. Such an improvement would be both difficult and costly, Skelly stated.

Rowan terminated the discussion by informing the delegation that nothing could be done until such time as the residents comply with the county requirements.

County Teachers To Attend Meet

Three members of the Allegany County Teachers Association will attend the National Education Association convention in St. Louis from June 28 through July 3.

Delegates include Miss Mary E. Murray, president of ACTA; Earl F. Brain, treasurer, and Roy Pepper, vice president.

Miss Murray is also a state delegate to the Teacher Education Program Conference at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kas., June 23 to June 26.

Proudfoot Youth Third In Marble Tournament

Del Proudfoot, Cumberland's 14-year-old marble champion, holds third place in his league as the national tournament wound up its third round in Asbury Park, N.J., yesterday.

Proudfoot, for the second straight day won 12 of his 16 games, and has an overall record of 30 wins as against 18 defeats. He trails the leader, Frank Osislo, of Reading, Pa., who has a 37-11 record and runner-up Dick Hickman, of Huntington, W. Va., with a 32-16 mark. Charley Fox, of Wausau, Wis., (19-27) and Mike Cichetta, Altoona, Pa., (2-46) are eliminated in the league.

The champion of the league will be determined today with the victors in the five other leagues shooting it out in the semi-finals and finals Friday for the national honors.

Proudfoot, who overcame a bad first day when he could win only six of 16 games, has fared particularly well against Hickman who has been runner-up in the finals the last two years. The local mibs champ has won six of eight in their series the past two days.

Proudfoot, a ninth-grade student at Fort Hill and son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Delbert Proudfoot, 408 Woodside Avenue, split with Osislo yesterday, winning a pair of 7-6 games and losing by 7-4 and 7-6. Hickman had been the leader going into yesterday's shooting but was able to win only seven games while losing nine in surrendering the lead spot to the Reading youth.

The boys were to "take over" the boardwalk at Atlantic City yesterday afternoon as part of their activities. Today they will be taken on a tour of New York City.

Gene Mason, City Rec director, accompanied Proudfoot to Asbury Park and has also been serving as referee for several of the games.

Club Formed At Playground

Others elected were Jack Murphy, vice president; Mary Footen, secretary-treasurer; George Kirby, publicity chairman, and Daniel Bender, poster chairman.

The club voted to hold a "splash party" on Wednesday, July 1, at Constitution Park.

A membership campaign was launched following the meeting, and the organization will meet on Tuesdays at 7:30 p. m.

House Committee Backs C&O Canal Park Bill

The full House Interior Committee yesterday reported favorably to the floor of the House of Representatives the bill sponsored by Rep. John R. Foley calling for the establishment of a C&O Canal national historic park.

Rep. Foley said the measure approved is HR 2331 passed in its original form with the exception of an amendment which states: "Any portion of the lands and interests in lands comprising the C&O Canal national historic park shall be made available upon federal statutory authorization for public non-park uses when such uses shall have been found, in consideration of public interests, to be of greater necessity than the uses authorized by this act."

The Sixth District Congressman said the C&O Canal historic park has a better chance of becoming a reality in this session of Congress than it has had in several years.

The bill creates a 160-mile long park along the canal between Cumberland and Great Falls. It also calls for the administration and maintenance of a parkway in Maryland.

This parkway, on high ground above the canal, would be between Maryland Route 51 near Paw Paw to Long Ridge near Woodmont.

Last week, Rep. Foley's bill failed to reach a report status when no quorum could be established by the Interior Committee.

Players To Meet

Storm Sewer Bids Sought

The State Roads Commission is advertising for bids on a contract to install sections of storm sewer on the south side of Route 40 in LaVale from the Cash Valley Road to near Super 40 Drive-In.

The bids will be opened by the commission in Baltimore on Tuesday, July 14, at noon.

The Cumberland Contracting Company was the low bidder on the 1.94-mile project between the same two points for curbing and guttering and resurfacing Route 40.

However, State Roads officials at the district office pointed out that the original contract called for an open stretch of roadway with shoulders built up.

Storm drainage would have continued to follow its present courses, which in a number of cases were over properties of residents of the south side of the highway.

A group of these homeowners met with SRC officials and requested that the drainage be rectified in the new contract.

Plans were modified, a spokesman said yesterday, and the new contract was ordered. It was pointed out that curbing and guttering was in the original project.

The storm sewerage will be constructed in four or five sections, and will not be continuous. The SRC said it will be placed where the terrain requires it.

Group Asks Repairs On Dump Road

Maintenance of Limestone Road, which has been a bone of contention between the city and county for a number of years, again came up for discussion at Tuesday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

A delegation of three women residents of the road, which leads to the city and county garbage dumps, appeared before the board to ask that the road be repaired and placed in the county roads system. Six families reside on Limestone Road.

Spokesman for the delegation was William R. Carscaden, city attorney, who explained he had offered his services when the group earlier had asked the city to repair the roadway. Carscaden explained that the city has no jurisdiction over Limestone Road since it is outside the city limits.

Six families reside on the road, the city attorney said, adding that the delegation in particular wanted something done about a bad dust condition. He also noted that the road is regularly used by large, heavy trucks hauling trash to the dump.

In a brief resume of the history of the road, Carscaden explained that the city had entered into an agreement with residents of Limestone Road in 1940 when the city purchased the dump site. The agreement, however, did not cover maintenance of the road, the city attorney stressed.

Leslie J. Clark, the county attorney, informed the delegation that residents of the road would have to comply with certain procedures before Limestone Road could be taken into the county system.

Clark also explained that roads in the system are maintained by money derived from the state's gasoline tax, and to take an unimproved road into the system would place an unjust burden on the county.

In response to an inquiry from John J. Rowan, president of the Board of Commissioners, Harry T. Skelly, roads supervisor, said he estimated the cost of improving the road to meet with county standards at more than $29,000.

Skelly said a major problem would be widening of the road since a steep embankment is along almost the entire length of the roadway and a sheer drop borders the other side. Such an improvement would be both difficult and costly, Skelly stated.

Rowan terminated the discussion by informing the delegation that nothing could be done until such time as the residents comply with the county requirements.

Proudfoot Youth Third In Marble Tournament

Del Proudfoot, Cumberland's 14-year-old marble champion, holds third place in his league as the national tournament wound up its third round in Asbury Park, N.J., yesterday.

Proudfoot, for the second straight day won 12 of his 16 games, and has an overall record of 30 wins as against 18 defeats. He trails the leader, Frank Osislo, of Reading, Pa., who has a 37-11 record and runner-up Dick Hickman, of Huntington, W. Va., with a 32-16 mark. Charley Fox, of Wausau, Wis., (19-27) and Mike Cichetta, Altoona, Pa., (2-46) are eliminated in the league.

The champion of the league will be determined today with the victors in the five other leagues shooting it out in the semi-finals and finals Friday for the national honors.

Proudfoot, who overcame a bad first day when he could win only six of 16 games, has fared particularly well against Hickman who has been runner-up in the finals the last two years. The local mibs champ has won six of eight in their series the past two days.

Proudfoot, a ninth-grade student at Fort Hill and son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Delbert Proudfoot, 408 Woodside Avenue, split with Osislo yesterday, winning a pair of 7-6 games and losing by 7-4 and 7-6. Hickman had been the leader going into yesterday's shooting but was able to win only seven games while losing nine in surrendering the lead spot to the Reading youth.

The boys were to "take over" the boardwalk at Atlantic City yesterday afternoon as part of their activities. Today they will be taken on a tour of New York City.

Gene Mason, City Rec director, accompanied Proudfoot to Asbury Park and has also been serving as referee for several of the games.

Club Formed At Playground

Others elected were Jack Murphy, vice president; Mary Footen, secretary-treasurer; George Kirby, publicity chairman, and Daniel Bender, poster chairman.

The club voted to hold a "splash party" on Wednesday, July 1, at Constitution Park.

A membership campaign was launched following the meeting, and the organization will meet on Tuesdays at 7:30 p. m.

The Prospects Of Future Wars

General Sherman said almost a century ago that war is hell, and he was right. If he were alive today he would probably be at a loss for words to describe the potential horrors of future wars. Even if nuclear weapons could be destroyed and their future use made impossible, there would remain unimaginable horrors.

Even the "nerve gas" the Nazis talked about was never used, although the Allies hadn't developed it then. It is so lethal that a single drop in concentrated form, if dropped on a human skin, would cause death in 10 or 15 minutes. In that length of time it would be absorbed and prevent the nerves from transmitting impulses.

There would be a complete loss of muscular control. Breathing and heartbeat would stop.

Maj. Gen. William M. Creasy (ret.), former chief of the Army Chemical Corps, told a House committee the other day that Hitler issued the order to use nerve gas against the Normandy invasion, then rescinded it. General Creasy believes it would have defeated the invasion. However, a shift in the wind might have turned it against the Nazi defenders.

Bacteriological warfare is another horror which each side is prepared to use if the other side uses it first. It, too, might get out of control and unleash great plagues against the users. But there is still another horror, General Creasy told the committee—a new chemical which might tranquilize whole populations into complacent slavery.

With such horrors available, and with psychopaths controlling parts of the world who would not scruple to use them, the future holds prospects that seem more preposterous than the wildest melodrama.

The Elite

It used to be that a large fire was regarded as more newsworthy than an idea. That was before ideas became instruments of conquest by means of a brainwashing process. Such ideas as respect for knowledge, for the aged, for parents, for the rights of others were taken for granted as characteristics of civilization. More than that, it was assumed that liberalism meant the expansion of human rights, the development of man's liberties. It certainly did not mean the expansion of the power of the state, of the control over men's minds by an elite class, by masters of men.

Some time ago I wrote something about the trend in this country to form classes in what we used to call a classless society. Particularly, it is interesting to note how those who can read a bit or a lot prefer to call themselves intellectuals and act as though they were a class apart and above the American people. So, one Erik Larsen takes me to task, demonstrating in some manner that my logic is not the same as his logic and specifying that I possess less information than he does and cannot collate what I have correctly. Having so written to the editor of the "Washington Post," the aforesaid Larsen proceeds:

"A question: Why publish so unwarranted an attack upon the country's elite? One is disagreeably reminded of 'Pravda' party hacks baying at Boris Pasternak!"

The first sentence is diagnostic of the current disease among liberals, namely, if anyone does not agree, chop his head off! The other day I wrote a piece referring in some manner to Senators Joe McCarthy and Stuart Symington, so an outsider wrote a letter to the same editor suggesting that my head be chopped off. It is characteristic of the more aggressive liberals that they object to anything being said or written which does not conform to their preconceived notions and set purposes. Students in colleges find this particularly difficult in the so-called objective tests in which a machine marks a single answer as absolutely correct when it is true that two or three other answers might also be correct.

But what I think is especially offensive in Larsen's letter is the use of the word, elite. The Oxford Dictionary, which I prefer to all others, defines elite as "the choice part or flower" of society.

What or who in our society is choice? How is this choiceness measured? There was a period in the environs of Boston when great intellects formed a coterie, perhaps about Ralph Waldo Emerson. They never referred to themselves as an elite. Subsequently, in New York, those who had amassed millions of dollars out of the growth of the country became a focus for society. Mrs. Astor's ball-room held 400 and that became the maximum that would be admitted into this plush group, whose principal characteristic was a huge accumulation of wealth. They built homes on Fifth Avenue, in Newport, in Lenox, in South Carolina. They owned yachts and gave generously to charity. They dressed well and tried to live in the upper British fashion.

Taxes and the corruptions of Prohibition wiped out the social authority of the 400. In its place came Cafe Society, a vulgarization of life and manners. The arbiters of significance were the proprietors of such places as the Stork Club, 21, the Colony and El Morocco. One who could not make a good table at one of these places did not belong.

Although we have always had a plethora of professors, scholars and writers, they were never referred to as an elite, even by themselves, until the post-World War II period when a fellow who could write with chalk on a blackboard suddenly developed a singular importance because he knew how to trigger a hydrogen bomb. The scientists organized into a society and made a fierce noise to frighten all the world.

What were they saying? Larsen says it for them. They are a self-designated elite. They are the flower of society. Why? Because by the law of supply and demand, they have value. Many chalk-writers are needed and too few are available. Within a decade, they will be as numerous as lawyers and perhaps as valuable. Currently it is their moment. Does that make them an elite? Ask Jimmy Hoffa.

TV's Wyatt Earp Plans To Do Show On Dangers Of Radioactive Fallout

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Hugh O'Brian, who stars as Wyatt Earp in the TV dramatic series that has made Wichita, Kans., famous, sat near the rear of Congressman Holifield's investigation of radio-active fallout. He sat through the entire hearing as interested as one of the spectators of his own TV drama.

Finally, John Donnelly, assistant to Congressman Holifield, went up to him.

"What are you doing here?" asked the curious Donnelly.

"I've just spent a week in Africa with Dr. Schweitzer," replied the Hollywood actor. "And he is so worried about the effect of radioactive fallout on civilization that I decided to attend these hearings.

He added that he intended to continue watching the hearings for a week and then do a TV show on the dangers of atomic war. Holifield's hearings are showing that any nation which starts atomic war could be wiped out by its own fallout.

Broken Promise

Only the insiders realize it, but President Eisenhower could have saved himself a lot of headaches over Admiral Strauss if he had carried out his promise to Undersecretary of Commerce Walter Williams.

Williams had served for five years under Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks with the explicit understanding that he would replace Weeks when Weeks went back to Boston. Williams had been the chief organizer of the Citizens-for-Eisenhower clubs and served as their national chairman in the 1952 campaign. It was he who helped raise the $2,000,000 to blanket the TV networks with those famous spot appearances of Eisenhower during the last two weeks of the campaign.

After Ike won, Williams was made Undersecretary of Commerce with the understanding that he would be promoted to the Cabinet later. Williams is a progressive businessman from Seattle, was an early organizer of the Committee for Economic Development, believes small business must be supported to retain the principle of free competition.

Though not happy with Weeks' big business policies, he remained in the Commerce Department, waiting for him to resign. Finally Weeks did so. Whereupon Eisenhower reversed himself. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey persuaded him to appoint his friend, Admiral Strauss, partner in one of the biggest Wall Street investment firms, to succeed Weeks.

Alabama For Kennedy

It was just 30 years ago that Sen. "Tom-Tom" Heflin of Alabama was taking the floor of the U. S. Senate almost daily to warn the nation of the "dangerous menace of the Pope in Rome." It was also just 30 years ago that part of the Solid South went for a Republican, Herbert Hoover, against the Democratic candidate, Al Smith, because Smith was a Catholic. And it was only about a year ago that John Patterson was elected Governor of Alabama with the enthusiastic support of Robert Shelton, Grand Drago of the Ku Klux Klan.

However, last week the same Governor Patterson sat in the office of Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, a Catholic, and pledged his support to deliver Alabama's delegates to Kennedy in 1960. Furthermore he offered to help Kennedy get delegates in other Southern states.

Kennedy was pleased. But he discreetly cautioned the Governor of Alabama that if he won too many Southern delegates too early it might hurt him in the North. He intimated that the South should hold back.

Governor Patterson, however, warned that the real issue in the South was not Catholicism, but a third party. He reported that Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas had addressed the Alabama Legislature recently and had all the earmarks of wanting to run for President. He also pointed out there would be a two-prong drive in the South—one for Faubus, the other by Sen. Herman Talmadge of George to organize for Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Therefore, Kennedy should not wait too long.

The young Massachusetts Senator didn't comment on this need for speed. But he did discuss with Patterson his strategy elsewhere, especially Ohio.

"I think I could go into Ohio and beat Mike Disalle," he said, referring to the Democratic Governor of Ohio who is expected to be Ohio's favorite-son candidate. "DiSalle isn't as popular as he was when first elected. In fact, he's always had a hard time running. I think I might just go into Ohio and tangle with him. There are 65 delegates in Ohio, the fourth largest in the Democratic Party."

If Kennedy does enter Ohio, it will mean a race between two Catholic Democrats which is quite a change for a state which in the early 1920s was dominated politically by the Ku Klux Klan.

Note—Kennedy probably won't find it possible to capture all of Alabama's delegates, even with the potent backing of Governor Patterson. There is strong Lyndon Johnson sentiment in Alabama.

Niggardly General Electric

Ralph J. Cordiner, chairman of General Electric and second highest salaried businessman in the nation, got a letter the other day from James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, offering help:

"Somehow that's a disturbing figure — $399,999.50!" wrote Carey, referring to Cordiner's salary.. "It reflects a degree of cheapness and pettiness and even penny-pinching on the part of your employer; I mean the company's failure to add 50 cents—just four bits—to your income to round it off to an even $400,000.

"For our part we think you deserve that additional four bits, the half buck more. Would you like to have someone negotiate this increase for you? We'll be glad to put our union's bargaining facilities at your disposal.

(Signed)—James B. Carey."

Final Test Of Capacity For Secretary Herter

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Christian A. Herter has come home from Geneva in the situation of a remarkably promising student who has only one more test to pass before getting his degree with high honors.

At Geneva, in other words, the new Secretary of State has already proved his capacity to lead the Western team, and to negotiate calmly and shrewdly with the Soviets. Here in Washington, however, Herter has yet to prove that he can persuade the President to make painful but necessary policy adjustments. That will be the final test.

Painful policy adjustments are now necessary and even urgent, in order to remove the main obstacles to success at Geneva. Despite Herter's negotiating skill, the first phase at Geneva has ended in failure because Nikita S. Khrushchev plainly regards the Western allies in general, and Dwight D. Eisenhower in particular, as fakes, frauds, and phoneys. Quite obviously, Khrushchev does not think that Eisenhower means a word of what he says about "not giving an inch" at Berlin. Quite probably, Khrushchev believes that Eisenhower will give away Berlin itself, if he is exposed to the right combination of crude threats and smooth talk.

Unless Khrushchev can soon be persuaded to take an altogether different view, the next phase at Geneva will also end in failure, with potential consequences of the most dangerous character. Hence determined steps are needed to show that the President is in earnest.

At the outset in Geneva, only a small minority of the Western diplomats and experts feared that Khrushchev was not taking the President seriously. At the close, a substantial majority had been reluctantly convinced. In the final Western offer for an accommodation at Berlin, Herter and his colleagues revealed their "fall-back" position. If they sweeten this offer much further, the Berlin position will cease to be tenable. Yet this final offer was scornfully, even arrogantly rejected by the Soviets.

One is forced to conclude that the Soviets expect to get a great deal more than the final Western offer. The opinion that the Soviets even hope to get Berlin itself, of course under the decent veil of some sort of fraudulent "compromise," is rather authoritatively credited to the able American Ambassador to Moscow, Lewellyn Thompson.

It will not be difficult to persuade the Soviets that these hopes are excessive, for the reason that the President actually has been faking about Berlin. Even among our allies, and especially the British, there are grave doubts about the sincerity of the President's proclaimed determination not to surrender at whatever cost. But those who have been able to talk the matter over at length with Eisenhower are quite clear that he really has made his decision after peering into the abyss. They are sure he had decided that anything is better than surrender, even risking an H-bomb war.

This report of the President's state of mind is in turn confirmed by the close, day-to-day watch that he kept on the Geneva negotiations. Far from urging Secretary Herter to go further in the direction of compromise, the White House even balked at one or two minor concessions which Secretary Herter had been inclined to regard as harmless. In short, the President seems to be every bit as firm as he keeps saying he is.

Yet Secretary Herter's problem is very difficult indeed, because of two deep-rooted Eisenhower traits. Because of his own faith in human nature, the President finds it very hard to imagine that anyone else can suspect him of faking, even including Khrushchev. When he declares he will "not give an inch," he expects to be taken literally. In addition, the President has a particular horror of what he calls "alarmist" talk or action. Yet this is just the kind of action that is needed to give reality to the President's pledges on Berlin.

The situation of the Western alliance is bad enough. Western Germany is riven by internal political rows. France is openly at odds with NATO and this country over atomic weapons policy. Britain is far from convinced of the need "not to give an inch" at Berlin. Yet it is very much worse that this country, the citadel of the Western alliance, has been treating the Berlin crisis almost as a casual matter.

The country has not been plainly warned of the potential gravity of the crisis. The Administration has disapproved the obvious psychological measures, such as partial evacuation of the thousands of Western dependents in Berlin, which was recommended by the Embassy in Bonn. With even greater sternness, the Administration has disapproved the obvious military measures, such as reinforcement of the NATO ground forces and a partial air-borne alert of the Strategic Air Command.

For these reasons, the President has not seemed serious in his response to the threat of Berlin. Hence his verbal firmness has not been taken seriously. By sedulously avoiding "alarmist" talk or action, with all its admitted disagreeable consequences, the President has in fact invited the Soviets to carry out their threats. There is the problem Herter now has to solve.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Senator J. William Fulbright (D), Arkansas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was trying to get more money for entertainment of exchange student visitors. The program is a pet project of his and it has done much to further international understanding in recent years.

A State Department representative was explaining to Fulbright's committee that the Administration had asked for $5,000, which figured out to $3.34 per visiting student, but that the House cut the request to where it provided only 66 cents each.

The irate Arkansan pointed out that it costs 75 cents for a hamburger in the Senate restaurant. And, he added, it's not even a very good hamburger.

The Artificial Kidney: A Lifesaving Machine

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The artificial kidney is more than a dozen years old but did not come into its own until three or four years ago. When we wrote about the machine at that time, it is doubtful whether there were more than half a dozen in use in this country. Nowadays, every large medical center has a unit and a trained team of physicians to man the machine on short notice.

The principle of the device is not difficult to understand. The artificial kidney consists of a cellophane coil that rests in a stainless steel vat containing a special watery solution. A plastic tube is connected to a leg artery and the blood is forced into one end of the cellophane coil. The blood flows through the filter-like coil and out the other end. It then returns to the body via a tube that is connected to a vein in the arm.

The blood distends the submicroscopic pores of the cellophane membrane, allowing certain chemicals or poisons in the blood to pass through the coil and into the watery solution in the vat. The type of chemicals that are filtered out can be controlled by changing the pressure in the coil or altering the chemical constituents of the vat fluid.

The unit duplicates the work of the kidneys and, if anything, does the job many times faster. It is employed in uremia or in other conditions in which the kidneys fail to work and the excretion of urine is nil. The unit takes over temporily until the kidneys begin to function again, usually in a few days to three weeks.

The ability of the unit to remove poisons has made it a valuable treatment for those who have taken too many sleeping pills, salicylates, strontium, or other drugs. It can be a lifesaving procedure because these noxious substances are removed 20 times faster than is possible through the kidneys normally.

TOMORROW: Salt, stress, and stoutness.

EAR CLICKING

M. E. writes: When I'm tired I hear a tick-tock sound in one ear and the nose. Is this real or a hallucination?

REPLY

It is real and does not come from a time bomb or an eerie alarm clock. The sound stems from twitching of the muscles of the eustachian tubes or eardrum. When a person is overly fatigued, these muscles may twitch as do those of the eyelids.

DEFECTIVE GROWTH

Mrs. D. writes: :What causes dwarfing? My 3-year-old is what the doctor calls an achondroplastic dwarf.

REPLY

The cause of this type of dwarfism is not known but it begins before birth. In this condition the bones do not grow properly and, as a result, the arms and legs are shorter than normal. Many authorities believe it is a hereditary disturbance that crops out from time to time.

HORMONES

E. D. writes: After a hysterectomy, is it necessary to take hormones for the rest of your life?

REPLY

No. Much depends upon why the uterus was removed, on how much ovarian tissue remains, and whether menopausal symptoms are uncomfortable enough to warrant hormonal treatment. Furthermore, physicians are cautious about prescribing female hormones if there is any question of cancer.

GARLIC FOR FLAVOR

Mrs. A. P. writes: Is the use of garlic in the diet healthful or harmful?

REPLY

Neither. Garlic is a herb and its scent lingers on the breath for 24 hours. It has no magic powers and will not prevent disease or purify the blood.

LIP CANCER

A. V. writes: What are the signs of cancer of the lip?

REPLY

The majority begin as small lumps or crusted lesions that ulcerate and fail to heal.

COMPATIBLE BLOOD

M. C. writes: Is it all right for two persons with Rh negative blood to marry and have children?

REPLY

Yes. All the offspring will have Rh negative blood. Incompatibility may occur when the mother is Rh negative and the father Rh positive.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A big, big shot in television was madly in love with a dazzling damsel but suspected she was two-timing him. So he hired an ex-cop to shadow the girl friend day and night, and report any suspicious goings-on. The private eye demanded, and got, $100 a week for his exacting duty. Everything worked out fine for about a month, then the TV big shot got a bit of a shock.

His girl ran away with the ex-copper.

The most polite and considerate man in Pennsylvania took his wife to Egypt to see the Pyramids and the Nile. When the time came to choose camels for the trip to the Pyramids, this perfect gentleman turned to his wife and ceremoniously inquired, "How would you like it, my dear? One lump, or two?"

Sign spotted on the back of one of those perky little Volkswagens: "Don't squash me: I eat harmful insects." On another: "Help us stamp out Cadillacs."

Answer From Moscow

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — About the most favorable reactions we've had to the recent columns on our family trip to Russia comes from Moscow.

Neither the column nor the drawing was flattering, but coming from the Communists this is high praise.

The second bit of "praise" comes from more official sources. No less than the Soviet first deputy premier — Kozlov. We didn't happen to have the "pleasure" of meeting him.

The Literary Gazette made an attempt to be humorous, but Comrade Kozlov wasn't funny at all. He was just plain mad.

To wit this report from Moscow:

"Kozlov said he was disturbed by series articles being written by a correspondent Gould who toured Russia with wife, has maligned Soviet women, otherwise offended Russia and caused friction."

What disturbed Kozlov was a factual report, including the fact —"Women in Russia do everything — from street sweeping, street repairing, swinging picks and shovels, pushing wheel barrows, driving trucks and carpentering to ballet dancing. Around 70 per cent of the doctors are women. . . . . Russian women are sturdy and powerful. They have to be.

"All this doesn't mean Russian women aren't feminine and not interested in feminine finery. Russian fashion shows, which compare favorably with those in the Western world, attract large turnouts."

Kozlov is coming to New York for the opening of the Soviet exposition. It will be interesting to see his reporting of what he sees and learns in the U.S. More importantly whether he can or dares to report factually.

The columnist for the Literary Gazette waxes allegorical. Heading his column — "Leslie Gould's Falsified Check—" he starts off:

"Leslie Gould suffered. Being the financial observer of the newspaper New York Journal American he counted and counted again the money of strangers from early morning until late at night in performance of his official duty. The words "thousands," "hundreds of thousands" appeared often in his articles. But one cannot observe such diversity in his pockets. And that was touching. . . . . .

"The observer was inspired with an idea. Gould wrote the series of articles about the Soviet Union. This series was his false check.

"It doesn't take too much jewelry work for such forgery. Quite the contrary. The clumsier the work the better. Five articles have already been printed. And it is difficult to say what they consist of more: Impudence, nonsense, or slander.

"Leslie Gould's pen is rushing about the paper, spilling blots. We find out that one 'can not buy any thing' in the Soviet shops. One can buy 'only caviar.'"

We didn't say that. It obviously refers to a column headed—"Caviar Cheap, Necessities expensive for Russian worker." That column in reporting actual prices of goods in Moscow's leading department store — Gum — showed an overcoat costs the average Russian worker two months pay, compared to 27 to 36 hours for an American worker. A man's pair of shoes, a week's pay check, vs. 5 ¾ hours for an American. A woman's slip 50 hours, vs. 2 hours in the U.S.

"The automobile industry almost does not exist in the USSR. And do you want to know why? The commissars do not want the ordinary Soviet people to move about too freely. And so on and so forth."

Well, Russia, with 209 million population and the largest land area, is producing only 114,000 automobiles this year and by 1965 under the new Seven-Year Plan will be turning out only 170,000. The figures are official, taken from Khrushchev's report on the Seven-Year Plan.)

The Literary Gazette writer goes on:

"It is lucky that we are saved from the necessity of refuting such stuff. Hundreds of American tourists travelling our country tell the truth upon their arrival back in the USA. This truth often filters even to the bourgeois press.

"Americans are displaying enormous interest in the country of the first Sputnik. It is impossible to satisfy this thirst with anti-Soviet cranberry jelly. Facts should be acknowledged. Averell Harriman made public his impression about his trip. . . . 'New houses, bright gay dresses, the shop windows full of products and consumer goods make Moscow almost unrecognizable.'"

After reading former Governor Harriman's account of his trip to Moscow, we are reminded of the late Ring Lardner's story on a World Series:

"Well folks, I've just been to a double header. The game I saw and the game I heard Graham MacNamee broadcast."

After Ike won, Williams was made Undersecretary of Commerce with the understanding that he would be promoted to the Cabinet later. Williams is a progressive businessman from Seattle, was an early organizer of the Committee for Economic Development, believes small business must be supported to retain the principle of free competition.

Though not happy with Weeks' big business policies, he remained in the Commerce Department, waiting for him to resign. Finally Weeks did so. Whereupon Eisenhower reversed himself. Ex-Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey persuaded him to appoint his friend, Admiral Strauss, partner in one of the biggest Wall Street investment firms, to succeed Weeks.

Alabama For Kennedy

It was just 30 years ago that Sen. "Tom-Tom" Heflin of Alabama was taking the floor of the U. S. Senate almost daily to warn the nation of the "dangerous menace of the Pope in Rome." It was also just 30 years ago that part of the Solid South went for a Republican, Herbert Hoover, against the Democratic candidate, Al Smith, because Smith was a Catholic. And it was only about a year ago that John Patterson was elected Governor of Alabama with the enthusiastic support of Robert Shelton, Grand Drago of the Ku Klux Klan.

However, last week the same Governor Patterson sat in the office of Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, a Catholic, and pledged his support to deliver Alabama's delegates to Kennedy in 1960. Furthermore he offered to help Kennedy get delegates in other Southern states.

Kennedy was pleased. But he discreetly cautioned the Governor of Alabama that if he won too many Southern delegates too early it might hurt him in the North. He intimated that the South should hold back.

Governor Patterson, however, warned that the real issue in the South was not Catholicism, but a third party. He reported that Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas had addressed the Alabama Legislature recently and had all the earmarks of wanting to run for President. He also pointed out there would be a two-prong drive in the South—one for Faubus, the other by Sen. Herman Talmadge of George to organize for Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Therefore, Kennedy should not wait too long.

The young Massachusetts Senator didn't comment on this need for speed. But he did discuss with Patterson his strategy elsewhere, especially Ohio.

"I think I could go into Ohio and beat Mike Disalle," he said, referring to the Democratic Governor of Ohio who is expected to be Ohio's favorite-son candidate. "DiSalle isn't as popular as he was when first elected. In fact, he's always had a hard time running. I think I might just go into Ohio and tangle with him. There are 65 delegates in Ohio, the fourth largest in the Democratic Party."

If Kennedy does enter Ohio, it will mean a race between two Catholic Democrats which is quite a change for a state which in the early 1920s was dominated politically by the Ku Klux Klan.

Note—Kennedy probably won't find it possible to capture all of Alabama's delegates, even with the potent backing of Governor Patterson. There is strong Lyndon Johnson sentiment in Alabama.

Niggardly General Electric

Ralph J. Cordiner, chairman of General Electric and second highest salaried businessman in the nation, got a letter the other day from James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers, offering help:

"Somehow that's a disturbing figure — $399,999.50!" wrote Carey, referring to Cordiner's salary.. "It reflects a degree of cheapness and pettiness and even penny-pinching on the part of your employer; I mean the company's failure to add 50 cents—just four bits—to your income to round it off to an even $400,000.

"For our part we think you deserve that additional four bits, the half buck more. Would you like to have someone negotiate this increase for you? We'll be glad to put our union's bargaining facilities at your disposal.

(Signed)—James B. Carey."

Final Test Of Capacity For Secretary Herter

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON.

Christian A. Herter has come home from Geneva in the situation of a remarkably promising student who has only one more test to pass before getting his degree with high honors.

At Geneva, in other words, the new Secretary of State has already proved his capacity to lead the Western team, and to negotiate calmly and shrewdly with the Soviets. Here in Washington, however, Herter has yet to prove that he can persuade the President to make painful but necessary policy adjustments. That will be the final test.

Painful policy adjustments are now necessary and even urgent, in order to remove the main obstacles to success at Geneva. Despite Herter's negotiating skill, the first phase at Geneva has ended in failure because Nikita S. Khrushchev plainly regards the Western allies in general, and Dwight D. Eisenhower in particular, as fakes, frauds, and phoneys. Quite obviously, Khrushchev does not think that Eisenhower means a word of what he says about "not giving an inch" at Berlin. Quite probably, Khrushchev believes that Eisenhower will give away Berlin itself, if he is exposed to the right combination of crude threats and smooth talk.

Unless Khrushchev can soon be persuaded to take an altogether different view, the next phase at Geneva will also end in failure, with potential consequences of the most dangerous character. Hence determined steps are needed to show that the President is in earnest.

At the outset in Geneva, only a small minority of the Western diplomats and experts feared that Khrushchev was not taking the President seriously. At the close, a substantial majority had been reluctantly convinced. In the final Western offer for an accommodation at Berlin, Herter and his colleagues revealed their "fall-back" position. If they sweeten this offer much further, the Berlin position will cease to be tenable. Yet this final offer was scornfully, even arrogantly rejected by the Soviets.

One is forced to conclude that the Soviets expect to get a great deal more than the final Western offer. The opinion that the Soviets even hope to get Berlin itself, of course under the decent veil of some sort of fraudulent "compromise," is rather authoritatively credited to the able American Ambassador to Moscow, Lewellyn Thompson.

It will not be difficult to persuade the Soviets that these hopes are excessive, for the reason that the President actually has been faking about Berlin. Even among our allies, and especially the British, there are grave doubts about the sincerity of the President's proclaimed determination not to surrender at whatever cost. But those who have been able to talk the matter over at length with Eisenhower are quite clear that he really has made his decision after peering into the abyss. They are sure he had decided that anything is better than surrender, even risking an H-bomb war.

This report of the President's state of mind is in turn confirmed by the close, day-to-day watch that he kept on the Geneva negotiations. Far from urging Secretary Herter to go further in the direction of compromise, the White House even balked at one or two minor concessions which Secretary Herter had been inclined to regard as harmless. In short, the President seems to be every bit as firm as he keeps saying he is.

Yet Secretary Herter's problem is very difficult indeed, because of two deep-rooted Eisenhower traits. Because of his own faith in human nature, the President finds it very hard to imagine that anyone else can suspect him of faking, even including Khrushchev. When he declares he will "not give an inch," he expects to be taken literally. In addition, the President has a particular horror of what he calls "alarmist" talk or action. Yet this is just the kind of action that is needed to give reality to the President's pledges on Berlin.

The situation of the Western alliance is bad enough. Western Germany is riven by internal political rows. France is openly at odds with NATO and this country over atomic weapons policy. Britain is far from convinced of the need "not to give an inch" at Berlin. Yet it is very much worse that this country, the citadel of the Western alliance, has been treating the Berlin crisis almost as a casual matter.

The country has not been plainly warned of the potential gravity of the crisis. The Administration has disapproved the obvious psychological measures, such as partial evacuation of the thousands of Western dependents in Berlin, which was recommended by the Embassy in Bonn. With even greater sternness, the Administration has disapproved the obvious military measures, such as reinforcement of the NATO ground forces and a partial air-borne alert of the Strategic Air Command.

For these reasons, the President has not seemed serious in his response to the threat of Berlin. Hence his verbal firmness has not been taken seriously. By sedulously avoiding "alarmist" talk or action, with all its admitted disagreeable consequences, the President has in fact invited the Soviets to carry out their threats. There is the problem Herter now has to solve.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

Senator J. William Fulbright (D), Arkansas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, was trying to get more money for entertainment of exchange student visitors. The program is a pet project of his and it has done much to further international understanding in recent years.

A State Department representative was explaining to Fulbright's committee that the Administration had asked for $5,000, which figured out to $3.34 per visiting student, but that the House cut the request to where it provided only 66 cents each.

The irate Arkansan pointed out that it costs 75 cents for a hamburger in the Senate restaurant. And, he added, it's not even a very good hamburger.

Answer From Moscow

By Leslie Gould

NEW YORK — About the most favorable reactions we've had to the recent columns on our family trip to Russia comes from Moscow.

Neither the column nor the drawing was flattering, but coming from the Communists this is high praise.

The second bit of "praise" comes from more official sources. No less than the Soviet first deputy premier — Kozlov. We didn't happen to have the "pleasure" of meeting him.

The Literary Gazette made an attempt to be humorous, but Comrade Kozlov wasn't funny at all. He was just plain mad.

To wit this report from Moscow:

"Kozlov said he was disturbed by series articles being written by a correspondent Gould who toured Russia with wife, has maligned Soviet women, otherwise offended Russia and caused friction."

What disturbed Kozlov was a factual report, including the fact —"Women in Russia do everything — from street sweeping, street repairing, swinging picks and shovels, pushing wheel barrows, driving trucks and carpentering to ballet dancing. Around 70 per cent of the doctors are women. . . . . Russian women are sturdy and powerful. They have to be.

"All this doesn't mean Russian women aren't feminine and not interested in feminine finery. Russian fashion shows, which compare favorably with those in the Western world, attract large turnouts."

Kozlov is coming to New York for the opening of the Soviet exposition. It will be interesting to see his reporting of what he sees and learns in the U.S. More importantly whether he can or dares to report factually.

The columnist for the Literary Gazette waxes allegorical. Heading his column — "Leslie Gould's Falsified Check—" he starts off:

"Leslie Gould suffered. Being the financial observer of the newspaper New York Journal American he counted and counted again the money of strangers from early morning until late at night in performance of his official duty. The words "thousands," "hundreds of thousands" appeared often in his articles. But one cannot observe such diversity in his pockets. And that was touching. . . . . .

"The observer was inspired with an idea. Gould wrote the series of articles about the Soviet Union. This series was his false check.

"It doesn't take too much jewelry work for such forgery. Quite the contrary. The clumsier the work the better. Five articles have already been printed. And it is difficult to say what they consist of more: Impudence, nonsense, or slander.

"Leslie Gould's pen is rushing about the paper, spilling blots. We find out that one 'can not buy any thing' in the Soviet shops. One can buy 'only caviar.'"

We didn't say that. It obviously refers to a column headed—"Caviar Cheap, Necessities expensive for Russian worker." That column in reporting actual prices of goods in Moscow's leading department store — Gum — showed an overcoat costs the average Russian worker two months pay, compared to 27 to 36 hours for an American worker. A man's pair of shoes, a week's pay check, vs. 5 ¾ hours for an American. A woman's slip 50 hours, vs. 2 hours in the U.S.

"The automobile industry almost does not exist in the USSR. And do you want to know why? The commissars do not want the ordinary Soviet people to move about too freely. And so on and so forth."

Well, Russia, with 209 million population and the largest land area, is producing only 114,000 automobiles this year and by 1965 under the new Seven-Year Plan will be turning out only 170,000. The figures are official, taken from Khrushchev's report on the Seven-Year Plan.)

The Literary Gazette writer goes on:

"It is lucky that we are saved from the necessity of refuting such stuff. Hundreds of American tourists travelling our country tell the truth upon their arrival back in the USA. This truth often filters even to the bourgeois press.

"Americans are displaying enormous interest in the country of the first Sputnik. It is impossible to satisfy this thirst with anti-Soviet cranberry jelly. Facts should be acknowledged. Averell Harriman made public his impression about his trip. . . . 'New houses, bright gay dresses, the shop windows full of products and consumer goods make Moscow almost unrecognizable.'"

After reading former Governor Harriman's account of his trip to Moscow, we are reminded of the late Ring Lardner's story on a World Series:

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The artificial kidney is more than a dozen years old but did not come into its own until three or four years ago. When we wrote about the machine at that time, it is doubtful whether there were more than half a dozen in use in this country. Nowadays, every large medical center has a unit and a trained team of physicians to man the machine on short notice.

The principle of the device is not difficult to understand. The artificial kidney consists of a cellophane coil that rests in a stainless steel vat containing a special watery solution. A plastic tube is connected to a leg artery and the blood is forced into one end of the cellophane coil. The blood flows through the filter-like coil and out the other end. It then returns to the body via a tube that is connected to a vein in the arm.

The blood distends the submicroscopic pores of the cellophane membrane, allowing certain chemicals or poisons in the blood to pass through the coil and into the watery solution in the vat. The type of chemicals that are filtered out can be controlled by changing the pressure in the coil or altering the chemical constituents of the vat fluid.

The unit duplicates the work of the kidneys and, if anything, does the job many times faster. It is employed in uremia or in other conditions in which the kidneys fail to work and the excretion of urine is nil. The unit takes over temporily until the kidneys begin to function again, usually in a few days to three weeks.

The ability of the unit to remove poisons has made it a valuable treatment for those who have taken too many sleeping pills, salicylates, strontium, or other drugs. It can be a lifesaving procedure because these noxious substances are removed 20 times faster than is possible through the kidneys normally.

EAR CLICKING

M. E. writes: When I'm tired I hear a tick-tock sound in one ear and the nose. Is this real or a hallucination?

REPLY

It is real and does not come from a time bomb or an eerie alarm clock. The sound stems from twitching of the muscles of the eustachian tubes or eardrum. When a person is overly fatigued, these muscles may twitch as do those of the eyelids.

DEFECTIVE GROWTH

Mrs. D. writes: What causes dwarfing? My 3-year-old is what the doctor calls an achondroplastic dwarf.

REPLY

The cause of this type of dwarfism is not known but it begins before birth. In this condition the bones do not grow properly and, as a result, the arms and legs are shorter than normal. Many authorities believe it is a hereditary disturbance that crops out from time to time.

HORMONES

E. D. writes: After a hysterectomy, is it necessary to take hormones for the rest of your life?

REPLY

No. Much depends upon why the uterus was removed, on how much ovarian tissue remains, and whether menopausal symptoms are uncomfortable enough to warrant hormonal treatment. Furthermore, physicians are cautious about prescribing female hormones if there is any question of cancer.

GARLIC FOR FLAVOR

Mrs. A. P. writes: Is the use of garlic in the diet healthful or harmful?

REPLY

Neither. Garlic is a herb and its scent lingers on the breath for 24 hours. It has no magic powers and will not prevent disease or purify the blood.

LIP CANCER

A. V. writes: What are the signs of cancer of the lip?

REPLY

The majority begin as small lumps or crusted lesions that ulcerate and fail to heal.

COMPATIBLE BLOOD

M. C. writes: Is it all right for two persons with Rh negative blood to marry and have children?

REPLY

Yes. All the offspring will have Rh negative blood. Incompatibility may occur when the mother is Rh negative and the father Rh positive.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A big, big shot in television was madly in love with a dazzling damsel but suspected she was two-timing him. So he hired an ex-cop to shadow the girl friend day and night, and report any suspicious goings-on. The private eye demanded, and got, $100 a week for his exacting duty. Everything worked out fine for about a month, then the TV big shot got a bit of a shock.

The most polite and considerate man in Pennsylvania took his wife to Egypt to see the Pyramids and the Nile. When the time came to choose camels for the trip to the Pyramids, this perfect gentleman turned to his wife and ceremoniously inquired, "How would you like it, my dear? One lump, or two?"

Sign spotted on the back of one of those perky little Volkswagens: "Don't squash me: I eat harmful insects." On another: "Help us stamp out Cadillacs."

Bloomington Water Problem Again Aired

Westernport Offers Bulk Rate

WESTERNPORT—Bloomington Water Company was offered raw water from the Town of Westernport for 30c per 1,000 gallons at the regular meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Commissioners.

William Bever, Milton Bever and Charles Pattison, officials of the water company conferred with the council and informed town officials that a meeting of property owners was called by the company in the fire hall at Bloomington and residents seemed favorable to a plan formerly outlined by Westernport council.

Effective January 1 the water company will pay for water going through a master meter entering the town and it will be necessary that a meter be placed in each dwelling or business place.

The town of Bloomington has been using between 30 and 40 thousand gallons a day which the town commissioners believe represents a great loss through pipes, spigots and commodes leaking. They are anxious to reduce the amount passing through the master meter.

Additional water will be used by the Town of Westernport it is estimated when the new sewage plant now being built is completed. The plant will use between 25,000 and 40,000 gallons daily. This plant is being built by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. The Tri-Towns towns have indicated they will use it also.

The Bloomington Water Company was granted permission to authorize taps on buildings now under construction but must sign an agreement with the company that they will install water meters before the water will be available.

Bloomington Water Problem Again Aired

Westernport Offers Bulk Rate

WESTERNPORT—Bloomington Water Company was offered raw water from the Town of Westernport for 30c per 1,000 gallons at the regular meeting of Mayor Ray L. Wilt and Town Commissioners.

William Bever, Milton Bever and Charles Pattison, officials of the water company conferred with the council and informed town officials that a meeting of property owners was called by the company in the fire hall at Bloomington and residents seemed favorable to a plan formerly outlined by Westernport council.

Effective January 1 the water company will pay for water going through a master meter entering the town and it will be necessary that a meter be placed in each dwelling or business place.

The town of Bloomington has been using between 30 and 40 thousand gallons a day which the town commissioners believe represents a great loss through pipes, spigots and commodes leaking. They are anxious to reduce the amount passing through the master meter.

Additional water will be used by the Town of Westernport it is estimated when the new sewage plant now being built is completed. The plant will use between 25,000 and 40,000 gallons daily. This plant is being built by the Upper Potomac River Commission for the principal use of the Luke Plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company. The Tri-Towns towns have indicated they will use it also.

The Bloomington Water Company was granted permission to authorize taps on buildings now under construction but must sign an agreement with the company that they will install water meters before the water will be available.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — Redheaded Janis Paige flew to the coast to sign for the most important role next to Doris Day and David Niven in "Please Don't Eat The Daisies," her first movie on the MGM lot in five years. But before she reports to Joe Pasternak Aug. 8, Janis is going to be busier than a one-armed bus driver.

She's due in New York July 8 for a TV show, then on to Dallas for the stage revival of "High Button Shoes" July 23.

"I'm awfully excited about 'Please Don't Eat the Daisies'," she long-distanced. "Chuck Walters is going to direct Jean Kerr's comedy and I haven't worked at MGM since 'Silk Stockings'."

The role of motherhood becomes Joanne Woodward who plays with Baby Eleanor Teresa as if she were a big doll. I went to the Newman apartment in Greenwich Village to have tea with Joanne. Paul was playing a matinee. The baby looks exactly like him, with very, very blue eyes and has such long hair it has already been cut.

Joanne's hair has been bleached to a very light blonde, the exact color of Marilyn Monroe's tresses. "I had Marilyn's hairdresser do it," said Joanne, "for 'The Fugitive Kind'."

"How do you get along with Marlon Brando?" I asked her. Marlon, Anna Magnani and Maureen Stapleton are with her in this movie.

The whole company has gone to Milford, N.Y., on location. Joanne hated to leave Paul and her baby in her apartment which she loves and which they have furnished with beautiful antiques. The Newmans come back to Hollywood in January and are looking forward to returning to California.

Caught the Dore Schary play, "A Majority of One," and went back stage to see Sir Cedric Hardwicke who gives a very fine performance as a Chinese gentleman. It's a very amusing play and it was nice meeting Gertrude Berg, whom I have admired so long on TV.

A champagne party was in progress backstage. Ina Ballin, who plays Gertrude Berg's daughter in the play, was leaving the show and she was being given a farewell party.

Paulette Goddard, replete with diamond necklace and earrings, was celebrating husband Eric Maria Remarque's birthday at Luchow's. He told me his new novel will be a love story on the order of "Arch of Triumph." He's writing his book first for a German magazine. Remember Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer were co-starred in "Arch" years ago. Remarque also wrote the academy award winning "All Quiet On the Western Front."

With Paulette and Eric were Anita Loos and Adolph Green. Adolph goes to Paris to visit Sydney Chaplin, who was in his "Bells Are Ringing." I'm told that Sydney has turned down dozens of plays in New York because he wanted a rest. His girl, Noelle Adams, whom he's exped to marry, is in New York trying out for a musical.

I had the scare of my life a few days ago after a session with my publisher Howard Cady of Putnam, and Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Cole at the Algonquin. Rosalind Cole and I went shopping and while getting out of a taxi her coat caught in the door and she was dragged about 10 feet before the taxi driver stopped.

Rosalind was the bravest girl I have ever seen. Although she was covered with bruises she insisted on going shopping with me. Then went on home and collapsed. Fortunately she suffered no serious effect and is much better.

Tallulah Bankhead telephoned me to say she is home from the hospital and has had literally hundreds of phone calls and messages from all over the country since I mentioned in my column that she is ill.

"It's true, I have been a sick girl," said Tallulah, "but thank God I am very much improved." I promised to try to run in and see her if I had time.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Declarer countered a skillful defense with a clever coup that destroyed his opponents' lines of communication at the crucial moment in today's hand.

The bidding was direct and against the four heart contract, West opened the king of diamonds and East signaled encouragingly with the eight. Apparently assured of an entry to partner's hand, West tried for a ruff by shifting to the eight of clubs which was taken in dummy with the jack. Declarer, following his normal bent, would hasten to extract trumps, concede another diamond, and claim his contract. But South, convinced that West's shift had been to a singleton, took measures to avoid the ruff.

If an attempt were made to drive out the ace of trumps at this point, West would win, put partner in with a diamond, and obtain the needed ruff. An effort must, therefore, be made to disrupt the communications between the two hands before attacking trumps. Disposal of declarer's remaining diamond was the only way to accomplish this purpose. Since it was logical to play the opening bidder for the ace of spades, declarer led the king from dummy and upon it discarded his last diamond. West was now saddled with the lead. Hoping against hope, he led a low diamond, but declarer ruffed and then proceeded with the extracting of trumps, holding his losers to three tricks.

A club opening would have resulted in the defeat of the contract, but in the circumstances, I would not undertake to criticize West's choice of leads.

Want to test your grace? Watch yourself in the mirror as you seat yourself on the floor!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Test Your Grace!

I have seen women who could achieve a very high charm quotient . . . if it weren't for the imperfect execution of just some small detail of grooming or grace. Very often a woman is completely unconscious of having committed this kind of oversight. Yet, any gauche movement can cancel out your other attractions without a moment's notice!

If you frequently take a careful check before your mirror of your unconscious gestures and movements, you can avoid marking down your charm in such unnecessary and unfortunate ways.

How about testing your grace now? Before a full length mirror, observe the picture you make as you sit down on the floor. How did you look? As well as you'd like to if, say, a half dozen people were watching?

If not, try it this way: Stand erect with your feet together. Then, take a small step straight forward with your left foot. Center your weight on the balls of both feet evenly. Bend both knees as you slide the toe of your right foot behind you along the floor. When your right knee touches the floor, place all your weight on it. Now slide your left toe straight back along the floor until your left knee just touches the floor.

At this point, you should be in a trim-looking kneeling position with your back and head erect, your knees and feet together. If you aren't, work at it until you are!

Of course, you don't always have to get on your knees to charm, but in this case it sure helps!

Your voice is another point for real charm pick-up. Read my booklet "Your Most Attractive Voice," which is yours for 10c—just send your dime and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

Airman's Son Dies

BEDFORD, England (UPI) — The 5-year-old son of M-Sgt. Earl H. Cox, North Esterville, Iowa, suffocated in a discarded ice box in the backyard of the American airman's home here Tuesday. Cox found the body of his son Richard after a five-hour search in which some 20 policemen and other volunteers participated.

Rosalind was the bravest girl I have ever seen. Although she was covered with bruises she insisted on going shopping with me. Then went on home and collapsed. Fortunately she suffered no serious effect and is much better.

Tallulah Bankhead telephoned me to say she is home from the hospital and has had literally hundreds of phone calls and messages from all over the country since I mentioned in my column that she is ill.

"It's true, I have been a sick girl," said Tallulah, "but thank God I am very much improved." I promised to try to run in and see her if I had time.

Want to test your grace? Watch yourself in the mirror as you seat yourself on the floor!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Test Your Grace!

I have seen women who could achieve a very high charm quotient . . . if it weren't for the imperfect execution of just some small detail of grooming or grace. Very often a woman is completely unconscious of having committed this kind of oversight. Yet, any gauche movement can cancel out your other attractions without a moment's notice!

If you frequently take a careful check before your mirror of your unconscious gestures and movements, you can avoid marking down your charm in such unnecessary and unfortunate ways.

How about testing your grace now? Before a full length mirror, observe the picture you make as you sit down on the floor. How did you look? As well as you'd like to if, say, a half dozen people were watching?

If not, try it this way: Stand erect with your feet together. Then, take a small step straight forward with your left foot. Center your weight on the balls of both feet evenly. Bend both knees as you slide the toe of your right foot behind you along the floor. When your right knee touches the floor, place all your weight on it. Now slide your left toe straight back along the floor until your left knee just touches the floor.

At this point, you should be in a trim-looking kneeling position with your back and head erect, your knees and feet together. If you aren't, work at it until you are!

Of course, you don't always have to get on your knees to charm, but in this case it sure helps!

Your voice is another point for real charm pick-up. Read my booklet "Your Most Attractive Voice," which is yours for 10c—just send your dime and a stamped, return envelope to "Secrets of Charm," c/o this newspaper.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♠	4 ♥
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♦.

Declarer countered a skillful defense with a clever coup that destroyed his opponents' lines of communication at the crucial moment in today's hand.

The bidding was direct and against the four heart contract, West opened the king of diamonds and East signaled encouragingly with the eight. Apparently assured of an entry to partner's hand, West tried for a ruff by shifting to the eight of clubs which was taken in dummy with the jack. Declarer, following his normal bent, would hasten to extract trumps, concede another diamond, and claim his contract. But South, convinced that West's shift had been to a singleton, took measures to avoid the ruff.

If an attempt were made to drive out the ace of trumps at this point, West would win, put partner in with a diamond, and obtain the needed ruff. An effort must, therefore, be made to disrupt the communications between the two hands before attacking trumps. Disposal of declarer's remaining diamond was the only way to accomplish this purpose. Since it was logical to play the opening bidder for the ace of spades, declarer led the king from dummy and upon it discarded his last diamond. West was now saddled with the lead. Hoping against hope, he led a low diamond, but declarer ruffed and then proceeded with the extracting of trumps, holding his losers to three tricks.

A club opening would have resulted in the defeat of the contract, but in the circumstances, I would not undertake to criticize West's choice of leads.

Two defending champions will be among the 57 entrants in the Women's Ninth Annual Invitation Golf Tournament which will begin this morning at the Cumberland Country Club. Tee off time will be 8:50 a. m.

The tournament is a two-day event, with 18 holes of golf to be played each day. It is an invitational affair for golfers with handicaps of 25 or less.

The winner of the tournament gains a leg on the Old Export Bowl which has been in competition since 1956. Capt. Lucile Bush, San Diego, Calif., won in 1956 with a score of 161. She was unable to secure leave from the service to attend this year's program.

Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore won in 1957 with 156 and Mrs. Richards was last year's winner, finishing two strokes ahead of Miss Jane Schiller of Salisbury, Md., and Mrs. G. William Bibby, Cumberland, who had 167s.

The first Old Export Bowl was placed in competition in 1952 and was retired by Mary Ann Downey who won in 1953, 1954 and 1955. The winners of the first two tournaments were Mrs. McCuskey in 1951 and Mrs. Nancy Bycott, Wheeling, W. Va., in 1953.

The tournament was a one-day 18-hole event from 1951 through 1954. Tee off times:

Virdon, Mazeroski Collide, Drop Ball

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Center-fielder Bill Virdon and second baseman Bill Mazeroski collided chasing Leon Wagner's bases-full pop fly in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday and the ball dropped to the ground, allowing pinch runner Felipe Alou to score the winning run as San Francisco defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

In a wild finish to a wind-blown game, Mike McCormick, who pitched only one inning, got credit for his fifth win against seven defeats. On the reverse side of the ledger, Benny Daniels, who threw only seven balls, was charged with his sixth defeat against four wins.

Daniels came in to pitch in the ninth inning with the score tied. He walked catcher Hobie Landrith on five pitches. Alou went in to run for Landrith. When Daniels threw two balls to Jim Davenport, Manager Danny Murtaugh lifted him in favor of Bob Porterfield.

Porterfield then walked Davenport. Eddie Bressoud sacrificed the base runners along. Dusty Rhodes came in to pinch hit for McCormick and was purposely walked to fill the bases. That set the stage for Wagner, who pinch hit for Danny O'Connell. Wagner hit a high wind-blown fly just back of the grass behind second base. Three men ran for the fly. Virdon got his hands on it as he rammed into Mazeroski and then dropped it as Alou scampered home.

San Francisco had a one - run lead going into the top of the ninth with Al Worthington relieving for starter Johnny Antonelli. Worthington walked Don Hoak. Hoak was erased on a fielder's choice by Ted Kluszewski and Dick Schofield went in as a pinch runner. He went to second on a passed ball and scored on Virdon's single to deadlock the game.

Women's Open Begins Today

Mickey Wright Seeks 2nd Victory In Row

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., could set a precedent by winning the Women's National Open golf championship for the second straight time.

"There must be a first repeat winner," said Miss Wright Thursday, "and I hope I'm it."

The tall blonde won both the Open and Ladies PGA last year.

The seventh annual Women's Open golf championship opens Thursday at Churchill Valley Country Club with the top 29 women pros and 34 amateurs competing over the 6,104-yard par 36-34—70 course.

Three-time winner Betsy Rawls and Louise Suggs, who won the title twice, along with three other champions, Betty Jameson, Fay Crocker and Kathy Cornelius, expect to make a strong challenge.

The 40 lowest scores and any tying for 40th place after the 36 holes will qualify for the final 36 holes Saturday.

Aaron Homers, Braves Win 4-0

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The rebounding Milwaukee Braves scored all of their runs in the first inning, three of them on Hank Aaron's 20th homer of the season, to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 Wednesday night in a game cut to seven innings by rain.

A's Win, 4-3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI)—Bud Daley kept the Kansas City Athletics out of the American League celler Wednesday night with a 4-3 win over the New York Yankees.

Chicago Open Starts Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's top pros tackle a "little fooler" golf course Thursday as the $57,000 Chicago Open, richest meet of the summer tour, opens at Gleneagles Country Club.

Although the par 70 Gleneagles layout measures only 6,350 yards, meet sponsors last year drove the pros crazy with tricky placing of the pins. More of the same is planned for the 72-hole medal chase for the $9,000 top prize which ends Sunday.

Bob Rosburg and Mike Souchak, Casper's closest pursuers in the recent National Open, not to mention the biggest star who never won the Open, Sammy Snead, also will be gunning for Gleneagles gold.

Kaline Returns To Tiger Outfield

DETROIT (AP) — Outfielder Al Kaline returned to the Detroit Tiger lineup Wednesday after being sidelined for five games with a fractured cheek bone.

Kaline was injured last Thursday in Baltimore and it was first feared he might be out several weeks.

B'nai B'rith, Jaycees Win

Rotary, Kiwanis Bow In Contests

Manager Buck Gephart's B'nai B'rith nine rallied in the last inning to edge Rotary, 4-3, in the first game of a Hot Stove Baseball League doubleheader last night at Penn Avenue field, and then the Jaycees walloped the Kiwanis Club, 15-6, in the nightcap.

The triumph was the fourth in a row for B'nai B'rith which has made a habit of pulling games out of the fire in the final inning.

Trailing 3-2 in the seventh the victors rallied when Vince Delagrange singled and Tom Hopwood bunted safely. Both moved up as Allen Cross reached first on an error and then Delagrange scored the tying run when the third baseman threw wild to home plate on an attempted squeeze. Winning pitcher Kenny Deatlehauser then squeezed home Hopwood with the winning run.

Delagrange and Larry Peters had two hits apiece for B'nai B'rith while O'Toole smacked a home run in the fourth with a mate aboard to account for two of the Rotary tallies.

In the second game the Jaycees shoved over six runs in the first inning and then coasted to victory behind a 17-hit attack. Gary Garlitz allowed five hits in pitching the victory. He and catcher Pat Wilson paced the Jaycees assault with three hits apiece. Leroy Reuschel banged out a double and single for the winners.

Hanekamp had a pair of singles and Withrow smacked a homer in the seventh with one aboard for the Kiwanians. The scores:

Orioles Beat Cleveland With Rally In 9th, 7-4

Move Within Half Game Of 1st Place

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles broke a 4-4 tie with three runs in the ninth inning to defeat Cleveland 7-4, Wednesday night and move to within a half-game of league-leading Indians.

Billy Gardner opened the ninth-inning rally by singling off Herb Score, who suffered his fifth defeat. Gene Woodling, batting for winner Skinny Brown, also singled, sending Gardner to second and Score to the showers.

Bob Boyd bunted both runners along and when reliever Dick Brodowski threw the ball into right field, two runs scored and Boyd raced all the way to third. He then scored on Jim Finigan's sacrifice fly.

Solo homers produced all four Baltimore runs, only the second time the Orioles have hit that many in a game since returning to the American League in 1954. They did it before on Aug. 21, 1956 in Boston.

Three—by Gus Triandos, newly acquired Walt Dropo and Billy Gardner—came in the fourth inning, again only the second time this has happened to the Orioles. They previously hit three in an inning in Cleveland, Aug. 14, 1954.

The other homer was by Bob Nieman, his seventh of the season. For Triandos, it was No. 18, Gardner No. 4 and Dropo No. 1. The big first baseman was playing his first game since coming to the Orioles from Cincinnati in a waiver deal Tuesday.

Hit Is Taken From Bolling

BOSTON (UPI)—Joe Cronin of Baseball's Hall of Fame robbed Detroit's Frank Bolling of a hit Wednesday—with a stroke of the pen.

Now American League president, Cronin ordered the official scorer to strike from the records Bolling's hit as Tigers' lead - off batter in the ninth inning of a game June 13 at Yankee Stadium.

The game was called on account of rain after Bolling's hit and the score reverted to the end of the eighth inning—New York 6, Detroit 4.

In a letter to Ken Smith of the New York Mirror, official Yankee scorer, Cronin said the hit could not be credited to Bolling because it did not affect the outcome of the game.

Giants Score Winning Run On Pirates Error, Win 4-3

Virdon, Mazeroski Collide, Drop Ball

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Center-fielder Bill Virdon and second baseman Bill Mazeroski collided chasing Leon Wagner's bases-full pop fly in the bottom of the ninth inning Wednesday and the ball dropped to the ground, allowing pinch runner Felipe Alou to score the winning run as San Francisco defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3.

In a wild finish to a wind-blown game, Mike McCormick, who pitched only one inning, got credit for his fifth win against seven defeats. On the reverse side of the ledger, Benny Daniels, who threw only seven balls, was charged with his sixth defeat against four wins.

On the key play that resulted in the Giants victory, Virdon was charged with an error.

Daniels came in to pitch in the ninth inning with the score tied. He walked catcher Hobie Landrith on five pitches. Alou went in to run for Landrith. When Daniels threw two balls to Jim Davenport, Manager Danny Murtaugh lifted him in favor of Bob Porterfield.

Porterfield then walked Davenport. Eddie Bressoud sacrificed the base runners along. Dusty Rhodes came in to pinch hit for McCormick and was purposely walked to fill the bases. That set the stage for Wagner, who pinch hit for Danny O'Connell. Wagner hit a high wind-blown fly just back of the grass behind second base. Three men ran for the fly. Virdon got his hands on it as he rammed into Mazeroski and then dropped it as Alou scampered home.

San Francisco had a one - run lead going into the top of the ninth with Al Worthington relieving for starter Johnny Antonelli. Worthington walked Don Hoak. Hoak was erased on a fielder's choice by Ted Kluszewski and Dick Schofield went in as a pinch runner. He went to second on a passed ball and scored on Virdon's single to deadlock the game.

Women's Open Begins Today

Mickey Wright Seeks 2nd Victory In Row

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mickey Wright of San Diego, Calif., could set a precedent by winning the Women's National Open golf championship for the second straight time.

"There must be a first repeat winner," said Miss Wright Thursday, "and I hope I'm it."

The tall blonde won both the Open and Ladies PGA last year.

The seventh annual Women's Open golf championship opens Thursday at Churchill Valley Country Club with the top 29 women pros and 34 amateurs competing over the 6,104-yard par 36-34—70 course.

Three-time winner Betsy Rawls and Louise Suggs, who won the title twice, along with three other champions, Betty Jameson, Fay Crocker and Kathy Cornelius, expect to make a strong challenge.

The 40 lowest scores and any tying for 40th place after the 36 holes will qualify for the final 36 holes Saturday.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—The rebounding Milwaukee Braves scored all of their runs in the first inning, three of them on Hank Aaron's 20th homer of the season, to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 Wednesday night in a game cut to seven innings by rain.

Chicago Open Starts Today

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's top pros tackle a "little fooler" golf course Thursday as the $57,000 Chicago Open, richest meet of the summer tour, opens at Glen-eagles Country Club.

Although the par 70 Gleneagles layout measures only 6,350 yards, meet sponsors last year drove the pros crazy with tricky placing of the pins. More of the same is planned for the 72-hole medal chase for the $9,000 top prize which ends Sunday.

Bob Rosburg and Mike Souchak, Casper's closest pursuers in the recent National Open, not to mention the biggest star who never won the Open, Sammy Snead, also will be gunning for Gleneagles gold.

B'nai B'rith, Jaycees Win

Rotary, Kiwanis Bow In Contests

Manager Buck Gephart's B'nai B'rith nine rallied in the last inning to edge Rotary, 4-3, in the first game of a Hot Stove Baseball League doubleheader last night at Penn Avenue field, and then the Jaycees walloped the Kiwanis Club, 15-6, in the nightcap.

The triumph was the fourth in a row for B'nai B'rith which has made a habit of pulling games out of the fire in the final inning.

Trailing 3-2 in the seventh the victors rallied when Vince Delagrange singled and Tom Hopwood bunted safely. Both moved up as Allen Cross reached first on an error and then Delagrange scored the tying run when the third baseman threw wild to home plate on an attempted squeeze. Winning pitcher Kenny Deatlehauser then squeezed home Hopwood with the winning run.

Delagrange and Larry Peters had two hits apiece for B'nai B'rith while O'Toole smacked a home run in the fourth with a mate aboard to account for two of the Rotary tallies.

In the second game the Jaycees shoved over six runs in the first inning and then coasted to victory behind a 17-hit attack. Gary Garlitz allowed five hits in pitching the victory. He and catcher Pat Wilson paced the Jaycees assault with three hits apiece. Leroy Reuschel banged out a double and single for the winners.

Hanekamp had a pair of singles and Withrow smacked a homer in the seventh with one aboard for the Kiwanians. The scores:

Orioles Beat Cleveland With Rally In 9th, 7-4

Move Within Half Game Of 1st Place

CLEVELAND (UPI)—The Baltimore Orioles broke a 4-4 tie with three runs in the ninth inning to defeat Cleveland 7-4, Wednesday night and move to within a half-game of league-leading Indians.

Billy Gardner opened the ninth-inning rally by singling off Herb Score, who suffered his fifth defeat. Gene Woodling, batting for winner Skinny Brown, also singled, sending Gardner to second and Score to the showers.

Bob Boyd bunted both runners along and when reliever Dick Brodowski threw the ball into right field, two runs scored and Boyd raced all the way to third. He then scored on Jim Finigan's sacrifice fly.

Solo homers produced all four Baltimore runs, only the second time the Orioles have hit that many in a game since returning to the American League in 1954. They did it before on Aug. 21, 1956 in Boston.

Three—by Gus Triandos, newly acquired Walt Dropo and Billy Gardner—came in the fourth inning, again only the second time this has happened to the Orioles. They previously hit three in an inning in Cleveland, Aug. 14, 1954.

The other homer was by Bob Nieman, his seventh of the season. For Triandos, it was No. 18, Gardner No. 4 and Dropo No. 1. The big first baseman was playing his first game since coming to the Orioles from Cincinnati in a waiver deal Tuesday.

Hit Is Taken From Bolling

BOSTON (UPI)—Joe Cronin of Baseball's Hall of Fame robbed Detroit's Frank Bolling of a hit Wednesday—with a stroke of the pen.

Now American League president, Cronin ordered the official scorer to strike from the records Bolling's hit as Tigers' lead - off batter in the ninth inning of a game June 13 at Yankee Stadium.

The game was called on account of rain after Bolling's hit and the score reverted to the end of the eighth inning—New York 6, Detroit 4.

In a letter to Ken Smith of the New York Mirror, official Yankee scorer, Cronin said the hit could not be credited to Bolling because it did not affect the outcome of the game.

Patterson Favored Over Johansson In Tonight's Bout

Challenger To Risk Unbeaten Record; 40,000 To See Bout

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson remained a solid 4-1 favorite over Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the unbeaten European titleholder in Thursday night's 15-round match at Yankee Stadium.

The weatherman was not overly optimistic, predicting a partly cloudy day with a chance of showers. However, promoter Bill Rosensohn still predicted a gate of $600,000. That would mean between 35,000 and 40,000 paying fans.

"Saving Right"

The match, scheduled for 9:30 p.m. (EST), will not be seen on regular home television. It will be beamed into 170 locations in theaters and arenas in 135 cities by closed circuit television. The New York area will be blacked out on the theater TV but will join the rest of the country in the radio (ABC) broadcast.

The Swede, who hasn't fought since he flattened Machen Sept. 14, boxed over 190 rounds since arriving in this country.

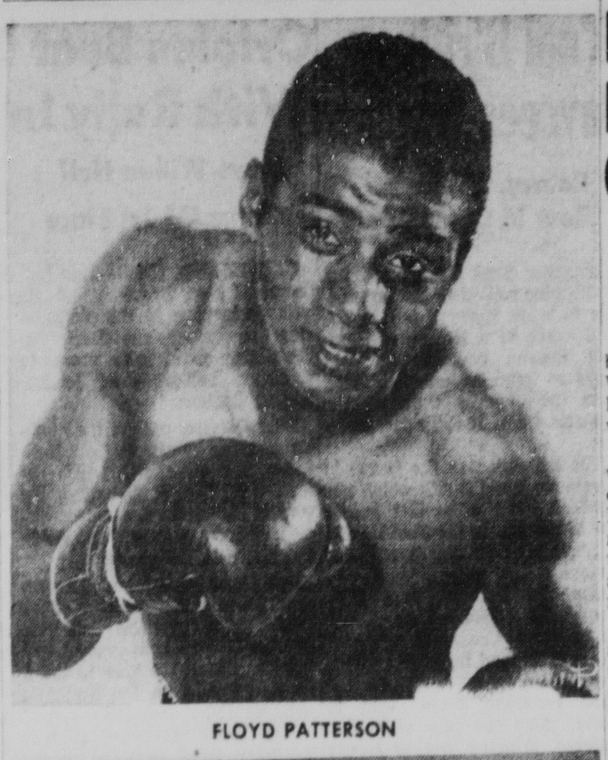
Fifth Defense

Patterson weighed about 182 pounds when he finished boxing Monday afternoon. He expects to come in at about 184 when they weigh in Thursday at 10 a.m. (EST).

It will be the fifth defense for the 24-year-old champion. Since he won the title by knocking out Archie Moore in 1956, he has stopped Hurricane Jackson, Pete Rademacher, Roy Harris and Brian London. He has won 22 straight and has knocked out 16 of his last 17 opponents. Since he turned pro, he has piled up a 35-1 record with 26 knockouts.



FLOYD PATTERSON

INGEMAR JOHANSSON

Tape Measure Of Title Bout

Tom Gola Under Treatment For Liver Ailment

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former All-America basketball star Tom Gola is under treatment at Hahnemann Hospital for infectious hepatitis, a liver ailment.

Gola, an All-America at La Salle College and now a member of the professional Philadelphia Warriors, will remain in the hospital for two to three weeks and then faces at least a month of rest on a vitamin diet, team physician Dr. Si Ball said.

The court star entered the hospital last Saturday after he was ill for one week at his home and had lost 17 pounds.

Ball said no operation would be necessary for what he described as an "inflammation of the liver caused by infectious virus." He said the ailment was a fairly common one.

Buddin Paces Bosox Victory Over Detroit

Gets Three Hits In 4-2 Triumph

DETROIT (UPI) —Don Buddin banged out three straight hits Wednesday, including a double, to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Buddin, who entered the game with a .232 batting average, wasted a single in the third inning but lead off the sixth with his two-bagger and broke up a scoreless tie when he moved around on a bunt single by Pete Runnels and a sacrifice fly by Ted Williams.

He also delivered a run-scoring single as the Red Sox scored two more times in the seventh on a base hit by Jim Busby, a walk to Jack Harshman and singles by Buddin and Runnels.

Harshman, acquired from Baltimore earlier this month, blanked Detroit on three hits until he tired in the seventh. Detroit chased him by scoring twice on a single by Frank Bolling, a walk and a double by Eddie Yost.

Southpaw Don Mossi, who had a five-hit shutout until the sixth, was charged with his third loss against five wins while Harshman gained his second triumph against six setbacks. With Boston, Harshman has a 2-0 record.

It was the fourth straight setback for the Tigers and kept them in fifth place in the American League race.

Olmedo, Buchholz, M'Kay Advance In Wimbledon

Nielsen Is Upset By Aussie Rod Laver

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Alex Olmedo, Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz Jr., all United States Davis Cup players, Wednesday went into the third round of men's singles at the rain-plagued Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The only upset of the day was the defeat of seventh-seeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, twice runner-up at Wimbledon. Rod Laver, a 20-year-old Australian redhead, licked Nielsen 10-8, 6-4, 7-5.

Olmedo, 23-year-old Peruvian who lives in Los Angeles, took only 55 minutes to demolish 17-year-old Rodney Mandelstam of South Africa, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. He next will meet India's 22-year-old Davis Cup star Ramanathan Krishnan, who disposed of Bob Phillips-Moore of Australia, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Buchholz, a lanky 18-year-old from St. Louis, beat Gordon Forbes, a Davis Cup player from South Africa, 3-6, 7-5, 11-9, 10-8 in a match stopped three times by rain.

MacKay, an airman whose home is Dayton, Ohio, defeated Vladimir Skonecki of Poland, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 on a slippery court.

Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., seeded third and fourth, gained the third round of women's doubles.

Mrs. Fleitz had to play two hours before she won a 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Italy's little Silvana Lazzarino. Miss Hard defeated Miss R. Osterman of Germany, 7-5, 6-2.

Others who reached the third round Wednesday included six seeded men players, topped by Olmedo, No. 1, and Australia's Neale Fraser, No. 2. Two Americans, Gar Mulloy, the 45-year-old Miamian, and Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., came through with a pair of good victories. Jon Douglas, the former Stanford football player, and Myron Franks were eliminated.

Dapper Phillies Whip Yankees, 11-1

Mike Hixon had three hits including a solo homer in the 4th frame for the Phillies. Mark Lindner, Jim Mertens and Olin Perkins each had a pair of bingles for the winners. Lueck with a double and single and Bill Stevenson with two singles paced the Yankees attack. The score:

Kline had a three-bagger and Deremer a double and single for the Potomac Edison.

In another American Division tilt, the Old Germans captured their fourth win in six starts with a 9-0 victory over Keech's Drug Store. Pickles Doolan fanned six and pitched his third shutout for the winners who iced the contest with a five hit, five-run splurge in the sixth frame.

The Dodgers scored their second straight victory in the Dan Division of the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday by turning back the Indians, 20-9, at Stitcher Field. Meanwhile the Athletics scored their first triumph by winning over the Senators, 8-1, in a morning game on the same diamond.

Manager John Daum's Dodgers led 20-0 before the Indians rallied for nine runs in the last inning. Winning pitcher Larry Imes had a two-hitter before he tired in the sixth frame.

The contest was featured by five Dodger homers, hit by Ed Piper, Pat Chorpenning, Imes and Terry Lease who had two. Chorpenning also collected a double and single; Lease had 4 for 4 including his two circuit swats; Tom Stitcher smacked out three for four including a double and triple; and Imes had a single in addition to his homer.

Birmingham hit for the circuit for the Indians and also smacked out two singles while Mohler collected two singles for the losers.

Greg Skidmore pitched a three-hitter for Bob Ziler's Athletics in their initial start, giving up singles to Robinson, Wilt and Nave. The big guns for the A's were Bob Nave who homered in the second with one aboard, Ronnie MacFarland who had a double and two singles, and Skidmore who tripled and singled. The game was protested in the fifth inning by the Republican Club's assistant manager who claimed the Rotary second baseman was using a scoop glove.

Donovan Is Victim Of Unearned Tallies

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Washington Senators rallied for three runs on three singles and two errors in the ninth inning Wednesday for a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The outburst sent right-hander Dick Donovan to his fifth loss in nine decisions after the White Sox starter had held the Senators to one run on six scattered hits.

The Senators erased a 2-1 Chicago lead on successive singles by Jim Lemon and Roy Sievers. First baseman Earl Torgeson fielded Hal Naragon's easy grounder and threw the ball away in an attempted double play, allowing Lemon to score from second and Sievers to move to third.

Ken Aspromonte singled, scoring Sievers and throwing error by Luis Aparicio allowed Naragon to score also. All the Senators' ninth inning runs were unearned.

The victory went to Truman Clevenger, who came on after starter Russ Kemmerer was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

Aparicio permitted two of three Chicago errors but also scored both of Chicago's runs. One was an inside-the-park homer in the fifth inning.

Aparicio also used his speed to score a first-inning run for the Sox. He rapped a lead-off single off Kemmerer, stole his 21st base of the season and romped home when Nellie Fox broke a batting slump with his first hit in 18 trips to the plate, a single to short left field.

Scanlon Whips Mario Vecchiato

CHICAGO (UPI) —Bobby Scanlon, the world seventh ranked lightweight, broke the 18-fight winning streak of Italy's Mario Vecchiato with an unanimous 10 round decision Wednesday night in the Wednesday television fight.

Scanlon, weighing 135 to his opponents 136 pounds, was faster and was at his best when he tried to stay at long range and box. He cut Vecchiato over the right eye in the fifth round and thereafter the Italian, beaten for the fourth time in 53 pro bouts, bled constantly.

Each of the scorers, referee Joey White and Judges John Bray and James McManus, gave Scanlon, who won his 33rd fight against three losses in 36 pro bouts, a two point margin. White scored it 47-45, Bray 46-44, and McManus 48-46 for the victor.

Patterson Favored Over Johansson In Tonight's Bout

Challenger To Risk Unbeaten Record; 40,000 To See Bout

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson remained a solid 4-1 favorite over Sweden's Ingemar Johansson, the unbeaten European titleholder in Thursday night's 15-round match at Yankee Stadium.

The weatherman was not overly optimistic, predicting a partly cloudy day with a chance of showers. However, promoter Bill Rosensohn still predicted a gate of $600,000. That would mean between 35,000 and 40,000 paying fans.

"Saving Right"

"I am saving the right for Patterson," explained the Swede who still remains pretty much of a mystery to U.S. fans.

The match, scheduled for 9:30 p.m. (EST), will not be seen on regular home television. It will be beamed into 170 locations in theaters and arenas in 135 cities by closed circuit television. The New York area will be blacked out on the theater TV but will join the rest of the country in the radio (ABC) broadcast.

The Swede, who hasn't fought since he flattened Machen Sept. 14, boxed over 100 rounds since arriving in this country.

Fifth Defense

Patterson weighed about 182 pounds when he finished boxing Monday afternoon. He expects to come in at about 184 when they weigh in Thursday at 10 a.m. (EST).

It will be the fifth defense for the 24-year-old champion. Since he won the title by knocking out Archie Moore in 1956, he has stopped Hurricane Jackson, Pete Rademacher, Roy Harris and Brian London. He has won 22 straight and has knocked out 16 of his last 17 opponents. Since he turned pro, he has piled up a 35-1 record with 26 knockouts.

FLOYD PATTERSON

INGEMAR JOHANSSON

Tape Measure Of Title Bout

Robinson To Handle Fight Broadcast

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson switches from his role as boxer to that of commentator for the closed circuit telecast of the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship fight at Yankee Stadium Thursday night.

Robinson will handle the between-rounds assignment. His partner will be Chris Schenkel, who will handle the descriptive.

Tom Gola Under Treatment For Liver Ailment

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former All-America basketball star Tom Gola is under treatment at Hahnemann Hospital for infectious hepatitis, a liver ailment.

Gola, an All-America at La Salle College and now a member of the professional Philadelphia Warriors, will remain in the hospital for two to three weeks and then faces at least a month of rest on a vitamin diet, team physician Dr. Si Ball said.

The court star entered the hospital last Saturday after he was ill for one week at his home and had lost 17 pounds.

Ball said no operation would be necessary for what he described as an "inflammation of the liver caused by infectious virus." He said the ailment was a fairly common one.

Nielsen Is Upset By Aussie Rod Laver

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Alex Olmedo, Barry MacKay and Earl Buchholz Jr., all United States Davis Cup players, Wednesday went into the third round of men's singles at the rain-plagued Wimbledon Tennis Championships.

The only upset of the day was the defeat of seventh-seeded Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, twice runner-up at Wimbledon. Rod Laver, a 20-year-old Australian redhead, licked Nielsen 10-8, 6-4, 7-5.

Olmedo, 23-year-old Peruvian who lives in Los Angeles, took only 55 minutes to demolish 17-year-old Rodney Mandelstam of South Africa, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. He next will meet India's 22-year-old Davis Cup star Ramanathan Krishnan, who disposed of Bob Phillips-Moore of Australia, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

Buchholz, a lanky 18-year-old from St. Louis, beat Gordon Forbes, a Davis Cup player from South Africa, 3-6, 7-5, 11-9, 10-8 in a match stopped three times by rain.

MacKay, an airman whose home is Dayton, Ohio, defeated Vladimir Skonecki of Poland, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 on a slippery court.

Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., and Darlene Hard of Montebello, Calif., seeded third and fourth, gained the third round of women's doubles.

Mrs. Fleitz had to play two hours before she won a 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 victory over Italy's little Silvana Lazzarino. Miss Hard defeated Miss R. Osterman of Germany, 7-5, 6-2.

Others who reached the third round Wednesday included six seeded men players, topped by Olmedo, No. 1, and Australia's Neale Fraser, No. 2. Two Americans, Gar Mulloy, the 45-year-old Miamian, and Jack Frost of Monterey, Calif., came through with a pair of good victories. Jon Douglas, the former Stanford football player, and Myron Franks were eliminated.

Dapper Phillies Whip Yankees, 11-1

The defending champion Phillies opened their season yesterday by trouncing the Yankees, 11-1, in the Dapper Division of the Dapper Dan League. The game was played at Post Field.

Terry Deremer pitched six-hit ball and whipped the third strike past 14 enemy batsmen as his mates backed him with a 13-hit assault. Willie Lueck struck out 10, walked four and hit a batter in absorbing the loss.

Mike Hixon had three hits including a solo homer in the 4th frame for the Phillies. Mark Lindner, Jim Mertens and Olin Perkins each had a pair of bingles for the winners. Lueck with a double and single and Bill Stevenson with two singles paced the Yankees attack. The score:

Buddin Paces Bosox Victory Over Detroit

Gets Three Hits In 4-2 Triumph

DETROIT (UPI) —Don Buddin banged out three straight hits Wednesday, including a double, to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Buddin, who entered the game with a .232 batting average, wasted a single in the third inning but lead off the sixth with his two-bagger and broke up a scoreless tie when he moved around on a bunt single by Pete Runnels and a sacrifice fly by Ted Williams.

He also delivered a run-scoring single as the Red Sox scored two more times in the seventh on a base hit by Jim Busby, a walk to Jack Harshman and singles by Buddin and Runnels.

Harshman, acquired from Baltimore earlier this month, blanked Detroit on three hits until he tired in the seventh. Detroit chased him by scoring twice on a single by Frank Bolling, a walk and a double by Eddie Yost.

Boston added an insurance run in the eighth inning on a walk, a single by Dick Gernert, a pass ball and Busby's sacrifice fly.

Southpaw Don Mossi, who had a five-hit shutout until the sixth, was charged with his third loss against five wins while Harshman gained his second triumph against six setbacks. With Boston, Harshman has a 2-0 record.

It was the fourth straight setback for the Tigers and kept them in fifth place in the American League race.

Donovan Is Victim Of Unearned Tallies

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Washington Senators rallied for three runs on three singles and two errors in the ninth inning Wednesday for a 4-2 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

The outburst sent right-hander Dick Donovan to his fifth loss in nine decisions after the White Sox starter had held the Senators to one run on six scattered hits.

The Senators erased a 2-1 Chicago lead on successive singles by Jim Lemon and Roy Sievers. First baseman Earl Torgeson fielded Hal Naragon's easy grounder and threw the ball away in an attempted double play, allowing Lemon to score from second and Sievers to move to third.

Ken Aspromonte singled, scoring Sievers and throwing error by Luis Aparicio allowed Naragon to score also. All the Senators' ninth inning runs were unearned.

The victory went to Truman Clevenger, who came on after starter Russ Kemmerer was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning.

The Senators scored a single run in the seventh on Lemon's single, a walk to Clint Courtney and a pinch single by Julio Becquer.

Aparicio permitted two of three Chicago errors but also scored both of Chicago's runs. One was an inside-the-park homer in the fifth inning.

Aparicio also used his speed to score a first-inning run for the Sox. He rapped a lead-off single off Kemmerer, stole his 21st base of the season and romped home when Nellie Fox broke a batting slump with his first hit in 18 trips to the plate, a single to short left field.

Scanlon Whips Mario Vecchiato

CHICAGO (UPI) —Bobby Scanlon, the world seventh ranked lightweight, broke the 18-fight winning streak of Italy's Mario Vecchiato with an unanimous 10 round decision Wednesday night in the Wednesday television fight.

Scanlon, weighing 135 to his opponents 136 pounds, was faster and was at his best when he tried to stay at long range and box. He cut Vecchiato over the right eye in the fifth round and thereafter the Italian, beaten for the fourth time in 53 pro bouts, bled constantly.

Each of the scorers, referee Joey White and Judges John Bray and James McManus, gave Scanlon, who won his 33rd fight against three losses in 36 pro bouts, a two point margin. White scored it 47-45, Bray 46-44, and McManus 48-46 for the victor.

Preman, Pritchard Win Golf Tourney

Ed Preman and Bob Pritchard were the winners yesterday in a worst hole golf tournament played at the Maplehurst Country Club. Preman had a low net of 26 and Pritchard a low net of 27 in the tournament.

Closest to the flag on the No. 4 hole was Jim Donahue while Jim Reidler was closest on the No. 7 hole. There were 41 participants in the tournament.

In Memoriam

In memory of John A. Lepley, who passed away 21 years ago today, June 25, 1938.
Always so true, unselfish and kind,
A beautiful life that came to an end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace.
Whatever else I fail to do,
I'll never fail to think of you.
Sadly missed by

In Memoriam

In memory of John A. Lepley, who passed away 21 years ago today, June 25, 1938.
Always so true, unselfish and kind,
A beautiful life that came to an end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
Beautiful memories of a smiling face,
A broken link no one can replace.
Whatever else I fail to do,
I'll never fail to think of you.
Sadly missed by
LOUIS LEPLEY & FAMILY.

Rails, Steels And Motors Pace Brisk Market Rally

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rail stocks took over market leadership as individual issues moved up as much as 5 points on demand spurred by Senate Finance Committee approval of a bill to repeal the 10 per cent federal excise tax on personal travel.

The carriers, helped also by a number of favorable May earnings statements and approval of the Erie - Lackawanna merger, scored their best average gain since May 21.

Aluminum followed in the active list, adding a major fraction. Alcoa, strong in recent sessions, improved fractionally following announcement that the firm and Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd Britain's leading chemical producer, have joined forces and will form a new aluminum fabricating concern.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—July soybeans lagged, but other grains were higher today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up ⅜ to ¾; corn up ⅜ to ¾; oats up 1¼ to 1⅜; new oats up 1½ to 1¾; rye up ¾ to 1¼; soybeans off 1¼ to up 1½.

With offerings and hedge selling light, wheat futures advanced to strong levels. Commission houses and shorts bought. The southwest reported good demand for ordinary and low protein wheat, but slow demand for high protein. Reports said sizable amounts of wheat have been harvested in southern Illinois and Indiana.

Corn prices also rallied from early lows. Cash houses bought July, and elevator houses were good buyers of September. Local traders sold September and bought July. Receipts were light.

Export subsidies were granted on 20,000 bushels of corn and 70,000 bushels of oats.

Oats prices were also higher, especially in the new contracts. Cash houses bought, and short covering followed.

Rye was strong. President Eisenhower has asked the federal tariff commission to study the question of continuing the import quota after June 30.

In soybeans, most of the trade centered in July, which weakened. Commission house support strengthened deferred contracts. CCC sales yesterday totaled 912,000 bushels.

According to export trade reports, Formosa and Japan bought wheat. The continent was said to have bought more than 350,000 bushels of old and new crop oats.

Lards and oils were slightly lower, and meals were higher.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Rails, Steels And Motors Pace Brisk Market Rally

NEW YORK (UPI)—Rail stocks took over market leadership as individual issues moved up as much as 5 points on demand spurred by Senate Finance Committee approval of a bill to repeal the 10 per cent federal excise tax on personal travel.

The carriers, helped also by a number of favorable May earnings statements and approval of the Erie - Lackawanna merger, scored their best average gain since May 21.

Industrials, too, were substantially higher on the day with electronics issues, chemicals, steels and motors all strong.

The trading pace was stepped up to a 3,180,000-share turnover compared with 2,600,000 shares on Tuesday.

American Motors again was the most actively traded issue, rising 1½ points to 42. Ford gained 1⅜, Chrysler 1⅛ points.

Aluminum followed in the active list, adding a major fraction. Alcoa, strong in recent sessions, improved fractionally following announcement that the firm and Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd Britain's leading chemical producer, have joined forces and will form a new aluminum fabricating concern.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI)—July soybeans lagged, but other grains were higher today on the Chicago Board of Trade.

At the final bell, wheat was up ⅜ to ¾; corn up ⅜ to ⅝; oats up 1¼ to 1⅜; new oats up 1½ to 1⅝; rye up ¾ to 1¼; soybeans off 1¼ to up 1½.

With offerings and hedge selling light, wheat futures advanced to strong levels. Commission houses and shorts bought. The southwest reported good demand for ordinary and low protein wheat, but slow demand for high protein. Reports said sizable amounts of wheat have been harvested in southern Illinois and Indiana.

Corn prices also rallied from early lows. Cash houses bought July, and elevator houses were good buyers of September. Local traders sold September and bought July. Receipts were light.

Export subsidies were granted on 20,000 bushels of corn and 70,000 bushels of oats.

Oats prices were also higher, especially in the new contracts. Cash houses bought, and short covering followed.

Rye was strong. President Eisenhower has asked the federal tariff commission to study the question of continuing the import quota after June 30.

In soybeans, most of the trade centered in July, which weakened. Commission house support strengthened deferred contracts. CCC sales yesterday totaled 912,000 bushels.

According to export trade reports, Formosa and Japan bought wheat. The continent was said to have bought more than 350,000 bushels of old and new crop oats.

Lards and oils were slightly lower, and meals were higher.

Outside markets were mixed. The range:

Carver School To Be Closed Temporarily

Merger Proposal Is Withdrawn

At the conclusion of a three-hour meeting yesterday afternoon, the Allegany County Board of Education voted to close Carver Elementary School, 344 Frederick Street, for one year and shift pupils to Northeast, Columbia Street and possibly Centre Street schools to relieve temporarily the overcrowded condition at Gephart School, 930 Frederick Street.

This action was taken on motion of Joseph M. Miller, who said that his action was motivated by a desire to keep the Board of Education unified. The motion actually directs Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to transfer Carver and Gephart pupils to the schools where they can get their best educational opportunity.

Mr. Miller's motion also calls upon the school board to notify the Board of County Commissioners that the school board desires to retain control of the Carver building at least until September 1, 1960. In another year the Board of Education may want to reopen Carver as a unit of Gephart as was proposed this spring, or the building, valued at more than $300,000, could be utilized in another year for the establishment of a junior college in Cumberland.

Merger Was Planned

The school superintendent had proposed that the operation of Gephart and Carver schools be merged under the direction of a single principal. The first three grades would have been housed at Gephart and the upper three grades at the Carver building.

Reason for this proposal was the overcrowded condition of Gephart, which was built as a six-room school but now has eight classrooms, one in the basement and another in the auditorium. The anticipated enrollment for next September is 301.

On the other hand, at Carver, where the junior high school program is being discontinued, only 45 elementary school children are expected in September. By merging the two operations, Mr. Webster projected an enrollment of 170 at Gephart in six classrooms and 174 at Carver in five or six classrooms. He also proposed painting, relighting and renovating the toilets in the old wing at Carver, and purchase of a new playground opposite the East Side fire station.

Delegation Opposes

At the beginning of yesterday's school board meeting, State Senator Charles M. See, Delegates William Walsh, Thomas F. Conlon Jr. and Noel Speir Cook, and five parents and taxpayers from the Gephart School area were welcomed. The delegation included E. A. Warnick, J. H. Snyder, Mrs. C. A. Nave, C. A. Dye and L. C. Lapp.

Mr. Walsh, acting as spokesman, said that Senator See and the delegates had met with a delegation of Gephart School parents Sunday concerning the proposed school merger. He said that virtually all of those parents are opposed to the plan. He added that Senator See and the delegates had adopted a motion that day urging that the Board of Education retain the status quo at Gephart at least one more year or until better public support for the proposal could be developed. Mr. See endorsed the statement of the delegate and observed that most of the people in the Gephart School area are property owners.

Mr. Warnick, acting as spokesman for the five-member delegation, simply endorsed what Delegate Walsh and Senator See had advocated. The decision rests with the board, he observed.

After these comments were made, Mr. Miller moved that the board go into executive session so that the board could consider the proposed school merger calmly and without emotion.

Overcrowding Cited

Mr. Webster then was asked to outline the reasons for his recommendations and he cited the vast overcrowding at Gephart as the chief reason. The merger was advocated as the best way to improve the educational opportunities of the children through smaller classes.

Three of the four board members present then endorsed the proposed merger. (Mrs. Albert C. Cook of Frostburg was not present.) Kenneth R. Malcolm, Westernport, the senior member of the board in point of service,

By CARLO J. SALZANO

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University Dean Roy M. Kottman says a multi-million dollar industry is lying dormant in eastern West Virginia.

Kottman says if the agricultural resources in Berkeley, Grant, Hampshire, Hardy, Jefferson, Mineral, Morgan and Pendleton Counties were fully utilized, residents there probably could enjoy a $25,000,000 farm industry.

Last year, the port handled 7,285,547 tons of coal and coke, a drop of 1,182,151, the Army said. Pittsburgh was second to Huntington in 1957 tonnage.

Business and professional leaders in Cumberland, Md., will meet July 1 to start a campaign to raise at least $100,000 to finance activities of the Cumberland Industrial Development Co.

The objectives of the company are to promote increased job opportunities and improved economic conditions for the people and businesses of Allegany County, Md., by trying to attract new industry and expand existing facilities.

Huntington may be selected as the site of a new firm planning to make and sell "strike-on" cigarets.

The Continental Tobacco Co., considering the Huntington area because of its proximity to tobacco growers, has applied to the Securities and Exchange Commission for authority to sell stock to the public.

Chartered in Delaware, the company would feature a new type cigaret which would be lighted by striking it against a surface on the bottom of the package.

A total of $118,800 will be spent by the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. late this year or next for additional dial service at Morgantown.

A company spokesman said the additional equipment was necessary because of the growth of the Monongalia County community, West Virginia University and surrounding areas.

Two Hurt As Car Strikes Road Scraper

Two area persons were injured yesterday at 2:50 p. m. when two vehicles collided about three miles east of Hancock on U. S. Route 40.

The two injured persons were passengers in a car driven by Norman Orville White, 35, of 121 Springdale Street, city. He was not hurt, police said.

They said the accident occurred when a road scraper operated by Julius P. Morgan, 34, of Berkeley Springs, W. Va., entered the eastbound lane of Route 40 into the path of the White car.

The left front of the car hit the left rear tire of the road scraper, according to police, who said Morgan will be charged with failing to grant the right of way to oncoming traffic. Trooper N. G. Burleson of Hancock, investigated. Morgan was not hurt.

School Board Approves Three New Projects

$204,385 Involved In Contracts Here

Three contracts adding up to a total of $204,385 were awarded yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Chief among these contracts was one for $126,895 to the John I. Vandegrift Construction Company, this city, for an addition to the East Side Elementary School. This will include five classrooms, a health room, teachers' room and principal's office. S. Russ Minter, this city, is the architect for the project.

The Vandegrift firm was the low bidder among three bids opened by the Board of Education at 3 p.m. yesterday. The George F. Hazelwood Company submitted a bid of $136,770 and the George Construction Company a price of $141,257.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said he had hoped to be able to build the addition for about $100,000. It will need some new equipment too.

The renegotiated contract for the conversion of the old Allegany High School gymnasium into a library also was awarded to the Vandegrift firm. When bids were opened May 19, Vandegrift submitted a low offer of $81,600. Mr. Webster reported that by eliminating certain items, this bid has been reduced more than $16,000, to $65,000.

The third contract of $12,490 was awarded to the George F. Hazelwood Company for the enlargement of the Valley High School athletic field at Lonaconing. This price includes excavation, drainage, fencing, topsoil and seeding. This addition to the field is situated along State Route 36 on the Lonaconing side of the school. Three houses are now standing on the property and must be removed.

Valley High School now has a good soccer field at the school but the enlargement will enable use of the field for baseball as well. Two other bidders on the field project were much higher than the Hazelwood firm. Hout Construction Company bid $16,758.50 and Orrie R. Sensabaugh submitted a price of $27,038.

Fire Tax Vote Brings Few Registrants

Referendum Set August 18

The impending referendum in the so-called LaVale fire area on the proposed LaVale fire tax apparently has stimulated voter registration in the affected area only slightly, if at all.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, said that only three of the 20 new registrants during June have come from Election District 29 in LaVale.

Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the Board of Election Supervisors, announced after a meeting with representatives of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department at the Court House on June 11 that the special fire tax vote will be held Tuesday, August 18.

Would Authorize Tax

The deadline for new registrants in the affected area is Saturday, July 18, 30 days before the election. House Bill 336, passed by the General Assembly in Annapolis, provides for a fire tax not exceeding 10 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation in the area served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department provided it is approved by a majority vote.

The affected area includes most of Election District 29 and small sections of Districts 5 and 6.

Of the 20 new registrants so far in June, 14 were signed up as Democrats and six as Republicans. Heaviest registration activity has been from District 20-2 at Corriganville, where five registered, all as Democrats.

Nine In Cumberland

Nine of the 20 new registrants live within the city limits of Cumberland. Two are from District 4 in South Cumberland, two from District 5 in the North End, three from District 6, West Side, and two from District 14, downtown.

The other registrants included two from District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings; one from District 18, Midland, and three from District 29, LaVale.

Prospective new voters may register between 9 a. m. and noon and 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays at the election board office in the Court House basement.

Carver School To Be Closed Temporarily

Merger Proposal Is Withdrawn

At the conclusion of a three-hour meeting yesterday afternoon, the Allegany County Board of Education voted to close Carver Elementary School, 344 Frederick Street, for one year and shift pupils to Northeast, Columbia Street and possibly Centre Street schools to relieve temporarily the overcrowded condition at Gephart School, 930 Frederick Street.

This action was taken on motion of Joseph M. Miller, who said that his action was motivated by a desire to keep the Board of Education unified. The motion actually directs Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster to transfer Carver and Gephart pupils to the schools where they can get their best educational opportunity.

Mr. Miller's motion also calls upon the school board to notify the Board of County Commissioners that the school board desires to retain control of the Carver building at least until September 1, 1960. In another year the Board of Education may want to reopen Carver as a unit of Gephart as was proposed this spring, or the building, valued at more than $300,000, could be utilized in another year for the establishment of a junior college in Cumberland.

Merger Was Planned

The school superintendent had proposed that the operation of Gephart and Carver schools be merged under the direction of a single principal. The first three grades would have been housed at Gephart and the upper three grades at the Carver building.

Reason for this proposal was the overcrowded condition of Gephart, which was built as a six-room school but now has eight classrooms, one in the basement and another in the auditorium. The anticipated enrollment for next September is 301.

On the other hand, at Carver, where the junior high school program is being discontinued, only 45 elementary school children are expected in September. By merging the two operations, Mr. Webster projected an enrollment of 170 at Gephart in six classrooms and 174 at Carver in five or six classrooms. He also proposed painting, relighting and renovating the toilets in the old wing at Carver, and purchase of a new playground opposite the East Side fire station.

Delegation Opposes

At the beginning of yesterday's school board meeting, State Senator Charles M. See, Delegates William Walsh, Thomas F. Conlon Jr. and Noel Speir Cook, and five parents and taxpayers from the Gephart School area were welcomed. The delegation included F. A. Warnick, J. H. Snyder, Mrs. C. A. Nave, C. A. Dye and L. C. Lapp.

Mr. Walsh, acting as spokesman, said that Senator See and the delegates had met with a delegation of Gephart School parents Sunday concerning the proposed school merger. He said that virtually all of those parents are opposed to the plan. He added that Senator See and the delegates had adopted a motion that day urging that the Board of Education retain the status quo at Gephart at least one more year or until better public support for the proposal could be developed. Mr. See endorsed the statement of the delegate and observed that most of the people in the Gephart School area are property owners.

Mr. Warnick, acting as spokesman for the five-member delegation, simply endorsed what Delegate Walsh and Senator See had advocated. The decision rests with the board, he observed.

After these comments were made, Mr. Miller moved that the board go into executive session so that the board could consider the proposed school merger calmly and without emotion.

Overcrowding Cited

Mr. Webster then was asked to outline the reasons for his recommendations and he cited the vast overcrowding at Gephart as the chief reason. The merger was advocated as the best way to improve the educational opportunities of the children through smaller classes.

Three of the four board members present then endorsed the proposed merger. (Mrs. Albert C. Cook of Frostburg was not present.) Kenneth R. Malcolm, Westernport, the senior member of the board in point of service,

School Board Approves Three New Projects

$204,385 Involved In Contracts Here

Three contracts adding up to a total of $204,385 were awarded yesterday by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Chief among these contracts was one for $126,895 to the John I. Vandegrift Construction Company, this city, for an addition to the East Side Elementary School. This will include five classrooms, a health room, teachers' room and principal's office. S. Russ Minter, this city, is the architect for the project.

The Vandegrift firm was the low bidder among three bids opened by the Board of Education at 3 p.m. yesterday. The George F. Hazelwood Company submitted a bid of $136,770 and the George Construction Company a price of $141,257.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said he had hoped to be able to build the addition for about $100,000. It will need some new equipment too.

The renegotiated contract for the conversion of the old Allegany High School gymnasium into a library also was awarded to the Vandegrift firm. When bids were opened May 19, Vandegrift submitted a low offer of $81,600. Mr. Webster reported that by eliminating certain items, this bid has been reduced more than $16,000, to $65,000.

Besides the new library, this addition will include a health suite and classroom facilities.

The third contract of $12,490 was awarded to the George F. Hazelwood Company for the enlargement of the Valley High School athletic field at Lonaconing. This price includes excavation, drainage, fencing, topsoil and seeding. This addition to the field is situated along State Route 36 on the Lonaconing side of the school. Three houses are now standing on the property and must be removed.

Valley High School now has a good soccer field at the school but the enlargement will enable use of the field for baseball as well. Two other bidders on the field project were much higher than the Hazelwood firm. Hout Construction Company bid $16,758.50 and Orrie R. Sensabaugh submitted a price of $27,038.

Fire Tax Vote Brings Few Registrants

Referendum Set August 18

The impending referendum in the so-called LaVale fire area on the proposed LaVale fire tax apparently has stimulated voter registration in the affected area only slightly, if at all.

John R. Kelly, Democratic registrar and chief clerk of the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors, said that only three of the 20 new registrants during June have come from Election District 29 in LaVale.

Matthew J. Mullaney, president of the Board of Election Supervisors, announced after a meeting with representatives of the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department at the Court House on June 11 that the special fire tax vote will be held Tuesday, August 18.

Would Authorize Tax

The deadline for new registrants in the affected area is Saturday, July 18, 30 days before the election. House Bill 336, passed by the General Assembly in Annapolis, provides for a fire tax not exceeding 10 cents on each $100 of assessed valuation in the area served by the LaVale Volunteer Fire Department provided it is approved by a majority vote.

The affected area includes most of Election District 29 and small sections of Districts 5 and 6.

Of the 20 new registrants so far in June, 14 were signed up as Democrats and six as Republicans. Heaviest registration activity has been from District 20-2 at Corriganville, where five registered, all as Democrats.

Nine In Cumberland

Nine of the 20 new registrants live within the city limits of Cumberland. Two are from District 4 in South Cumberland, two from District 5 in the North End, three from District 6, West Side, and two from District 14, downtown.

The other registrants included two from District 7, Cresaptown-Rawlings; one from District 18, Midland, and three from District 29, LaVale.

Prospective new voters may register between 9 a. m. and noon and 1 until 4 p. m. Monday through Friday and 9 a. m. until noon on Saturdays at the election board office in the Court House basement.
